SAYS POLITICIAN GOT $5000 LEGAL FEE FROM FIRM UNDER INQUIRY

Witness Testifies Money Went to Murray Chotiner, Who Was Campaign Manager for Nixon in 1952.

WASHINGTON, April 24 (UP)-Senators heard testinony today that Vice President Richard M. Nixon's campaign manager received a $5000 legal fee from a uniform maker who was being investigated by the government.

Accountant Murray M. Kimmel of Monticello, N. Y., told the Senate investigating subcommittee that his worksheets for the A-C Clothing Co. of New Jersey showed payment of $5000 on July 31, 1953, to "M. Chotiner" for professional professional services.

Murray Chotiner of Los Angeles, a lawyer, has been Nixon's campaign manager in several elections, including the 1952 campaign.
Senator Joseph R. McCarthy

(Rep.) Wisconsin, told reporters the subcommittee had established that Murray Chotiner is the "M. Chotiner" referred to in Rimmel's notes.

Reported Pay-offs.

The A-C Clothing Co. was owned by Samuel Kravitz and his son, Herman, who are under investigation by the subcommittee for reported pay-offs to government contract officials.

Subcommittee coussel Robert F. Kennedy asked why the Kravitzes went to the west coast for a lawyer.

"I heard he was hired on ability, not on location," Kimmel replied. "I heard, as well, that he was an influential person. I heard he had achieved success in matters of this sort."

Knenedy asked what sort of "matters" were involved.

"Government investigation in the handling of Government property," Kimmel replied. "I he ar d he had handled such cases successfully."

Kimmel agreed when Kennedy asked if he meant cases involving misuse or mishandling of clothing material furnished to manufacturers by the Government.

Recalls Other Payments.
The witness said he did not know what services Chotiner performed. He recalled that Chotiner received other payments for professional services but did not know the amounts.
He said he also attended a conference with Chotiner at which the affairs of contractor Joseph (Joey) Abrams were mentioned. He believed Abrams also was interested in Chotiner's services.

services. "This was once again on the theft of Government-furnished material?" Kennedy asked. "Yes, sir," said Kimmel.

"Yes, sir," said Kimmel. Abrams was questioned about his part in the case last week. He invoked the Fifth Amendment repeatedly when asked about the Kravitzes, a $9,000.000 bond deal and two New Jersey bank accounts.

Kimmel also testified that his books showed the A-C Clothing Co. had agreements to get 25 per cent of the profits of two of its supposed competi-

STEVENSON SAYS EISENHOWER HAS 'SINGLE INTEREST ADMINISTRATION

Democrat Exhorts UAW to 'Write Businessmen Out of Government and Write the People Back In.'

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP)-Adlai E. Stevenson said today the Eisenhower Administration believed in a "single interest" government-a "government without representation."

The Democratic presidential aspirant appealed to members of the United Automobile Workers to help "write the businessmen's administration out of this government and write the people back in."

Stevenson's address to the UAW's seventh international education conference was a follow-up to a political debate by four Senators.

He also defended the Nazi-Soviet paet and repeated his accusations that Britain and France urged Adolf Hitler to "point to the East." British newspapers carried such headlines as "Khrushchev drops the mask" and "Khrush-chev rows with Gaitskell." London Demonstrations Are Carried in Red Press.

low-up to a political debate by four Senators.

One of the four was Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, who is opposing Stevenson for the Democratic nomination for President. Kefauver accused President Eisenhower of "tender solicitude" for giant corporations and urged a congressional investigation of automobile prices, declaring "profiteering is general."

Like Kefauver, Stevenson said it was apparent the present Administration believes government can be vested most effectively in representatives of a single interest, that society "can best be served by promoting that single interest—on the dubious theory that the benefits will then trickle down to people generally."

Stevenson asked his audience who in the Cabinet speaks for the nation's 166,000,000 consumers, who represents labor, children who need better schools, millions of older people who want worthwhile lives, the farmers of America, the 30,000,000 Americans he said must make ends meet this year on family incomes of less than $200.

A Cabinet meeting, Stevenson said, is a "meeting, Stevenson said, is a "meeting during the visit of Premier Niko-lai Bulganin and party Secre-tary Nikita S. Khrushchev. He said, too, that the country needs an agricultural program to let farm families share in the general prosperity. Mr. Eisenhower's farm bill veto, he said, has extended by a year "the most serious threat there is to the whole American economy."

Yesterday Kefauyer and Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California tangled in a staged political debate, along with Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, and Senator Carl T. Curtis (Rop.), Nebraska, at an education conference of the United Auto Workers.

Baltic Disaster With Heavy Loss of Life Blamed for Firing of Navy Chief.

By STAN SWINTON . ROME, April 24 (AP) — A responsible informant said to-day that a Soviet cruiser was sunk by a Soviet mine field in the Baltic harbor of Kaliningrad (Koenigsberg) recently with heavy loss of life.

The disaster percipitated an intra-government dispute which led to the firing of Adm. Nikolai Kuznetsov as commander in chief of the Soviet navy, the navy boss by Adm. S. G. Gorshhad been replaced as Soviet navy boss by Adm. S. G. Gorsh-kov, wartime commander of the Soviet Black sea fleet. The dispatch, which passed through the Russian censorship, said Kuznetsov was officially described as too ill for the job. The real story was described as entirely different.

The informant said that the lost cruiser was a former Italian vessel turned over to Russia as war reparations. He gave the name as the Novosibirsk.

Naval sources in Rome said Italy turned over the 7300-ton cruiser Duca d'Aosta in 1948 to Russia. It had a normal complement of 560 men.

The informant said the cruiser was blown up in a forgotten mined area and that many crew members died because the captain refused to let the crew take to the lifeboats until too late. The exact death toll was not reported. Kaliningrad is the port from which Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev sailed on their present visit to Britain. It is the former East Prussian port of Koenigsberg, which Russia took over after World War II.

Johnson said then that Congress wasn't going to "roll over and play dead." Cooley had pronounced the soil bank plan a "dead duck."

The Cooley bill's lack of provision for advance payments to farmers would mean they would not be getting sizeable government checks before the election. Cooley declared, however, that his bill would give the Administration everything it says it needs to put the soil bank into operation.

In addition to omitting any provision for advance payments, the bill has no provision for apyments "in kind" to farmers contracting to withdraw land from cultivation.

Republican leaders had laid plans at a forenoom White House meeting to drive for quick passage of a soil bank authorization measure. They talked of getting one through the House in 24 hours.

They said they hoped they could do this "in a few hours" tomorrow when the House is scheduled to take up the bill appropriating money for the soil bank.

Cooley said his bill would give Secretary Benson "all of the additional authority he needs" to carry out the soil bank program. He called his proposal a "companion" measure

Oscar Ehrhardt, executive secretary of the St. Louis CIO Industrial Union Council, said today he does not know whether the CIO's PAC will indorse its own slate of 13 freeholder candidates, or back the candidates picked by COPE. He said this was to be decided at a meeting to be held shortly.

The most determined efforts to defeat the citizen's slate of freeholder candidates are being planned by the Democratic city organization, it was reported. This is because virtually all elective offices in the city and their patronage are now controlled by the Democratic, who fear that the forthcoming charter study might result in proposals to consolidate or eliminate some of these offices.

SELF-RULE NEAR FOR TIBET

HONG KONG, April 24 (AP)

Red China said yesterday that Tibet is taking first steps toward self-rule under the Peiping government.

Petping said that the Dalal Lama, 22-year-old ruler who fled in 1951 before the invading Communist armies but returned, was named chairman of a 52-man committee that will establish self-rule.

ON PRIVATE SEWERS

A proposal to prohibit for-mation of additional private sewer companies "unless they are subject to proper regula-tion" was made yesterday at a meeting of the board of trus-tees of the Metropolitan Sewer District.

The board asked executive di-rector William Q. Kehr to draft a letter to the St. Louis County Council, for submission to dis-trict attorney John P. McCam-mon and to the board, propos-ing the prohibition of any addi-tional private companies unless tional private companies unless they are regulated in regard to charges levied and the terms of their ultimate acquisition by of their ultimate acquisition by a municipal authority.

"Now, when somebody takes over one of these private companies, it's a matter for litigation to arrive at the basis for it," board chairman John M. Bogdanor said. "All that should be agreed on ahead of time, before the game starts."

Private sewer concerns are

Private sewer concerns are operating in four county areas. The board was told yesterday that citizens' committees in Marlborough and in the Oakborough area had not yet been able to meet with Robert J. ice, Inc., to discuss sewer problems.

Kehr, in a progress report on district affairs, said two chemicals were being used to "mask" the odor of sewage flowing in Maline Creek, which has led to a number of complaints from householders in the area again this year. Flushing the creek, also will be tried, Kehr said, atthough he held out little hope for this method as a remedy.

The board voted to accept an offer from the Kingston Park Sewer District to turn over the facilities of the district to the Metropolitan Sewer District, including about $4000 in cash in the treasury, in return for an agreement to assume the defense of the Kingston district in a court suit now pending.

The extension of coverage is the one major item in the bill that is noncontroversial in the Finance Committee. The Eisen-hower Administration favors the additional coverage, but opposes two other key provisions in the House measure. One would lower from 65 to 62 the age at which women become eligible for social security retirement payments. The other would establish a program of disability benefits for persons totally disabled at age 50 or older.

TURKISH ATTACKS ON CYPRUS LEAD TO NEW CURFEW

NICOSIA, Cyprus, April 24 (AP)-The British clamped a new curfew on Nicosia's inner city today after small bands of Turkish youths swarmed through the area smashing win-dows and setting fire to buildings.

At least eight Greek Cypriot homes or business buildings were damaged by flames. No injuries were reported.

It was the second day of communal strife between Turkish and Greek-speaking residents of this British island colony in the east Mediterranean. The Greek quarter of the inner city already was under curfew as a result of yesterday's inci-dents in which two Turks were killed killed.

Most of today's trouble erupt-ed on the fringes between the Greek and Turkish communities. British soldiers, usually the target of island violence, found themselves in the strange position of being applauded as they broke up the crowds.

Christian Scientists Constructing Six-Story Building at 3450 Russell.

Construction of a six-story residential club for Christian Scientists was begun today at 3450 Russell boulevard. The club, cost of which was not announced, will accommodate 112 persons.

A spokesman for the project said suites and rooms will be sold to members of the church on a lifetime basis, with prices ranging from $2000 to $5000. Residents will pay monthly dues of $55 to $77, the dues covering overhead and meals.

The building will be equipped with an automatic elevator and the fifth floor will be reserved for a library and reading room. There will be 24 bedrooms with connecting baths and 24 with private baths. The building also will contain 54 suites each with one or two bedrooms, bath and living room. The larger suites can be occupied by one or two persons.

FARM SLUMP

Says in Reply to President That Veto Cost Producers Two Billions This Year.

WASHINGTON, April 24 -FEE TO POLITICIAN Senator Lyndon B. Johnson

that Mr. Eisenhower had abandoned campaign pledges to farmers.

In the movie, taken at Kasson, Minn., on Sept. 14, the President said he and his party stood behind the price support laws then in effect, including continuing "through 1954 the price support on basic commodities at 90 per cent of parity."

"All I know of farmers convinces me that they would rather earn their fair share than to have it as a government handout," the President went on in the film, "And a fair share is not merely 90 per cent of parity—it is full parity."

Johnson also quoted the President as saying at Brookings, S.D., on Oct. 4, 1952, that the Republican party was piedged to "helping the farmer obtain his full parity, 100 per cent of parity, with the guarantee in price supports of 90."

Republican's long have charged that the statements were taken out of context and denied the President had reneged on farm pledges. They contend the Democrats omitted the President's pledge to continue the law then on the books, but to seek new means of gaining farmers "100 per cent of parity in the market place."

The Administration won the present flexible program in 1954.

and low support in non-election years."

He said supports would be dropped back to 75 per cent of parity next year "if the past is a guide to the future." The President, in his veto message, raised the flexible level from 75-to-90 per cent to 82.5-90 per cent for the next year to give farmers relief.

Parity is a federal standard designed to assure farmers a fair return on their products in relation to farm living and production costs.

Senator Johnson, who has been mentioned as a presidential nominee, asserted Mr. Eisenhower "completely abandoned his flexible supports" when he raised the supports when he raised the supports when he raised the supports the supports when he raised the supports the supports and the supports the supports the supports the supports the support of the supports the support of th

He recalled the "farm depressions" under Republican President Harding and President Harding and President Harding and President Hoover and then charged "the Republican party is now pushing us into a third farm depression."

dropped from 14 billion dollars to 11 billion dollars, he said, but corporate profits have gone up 34 per cent, dividends 24 per cent, and wages and salaries 13 per cent. The farmer, caught in the squeeze of low farm prices and high costs, he said, "goes deeper in debt" with the farm mortgage debt in the first six months of last year "the largest for any six months' period recorded in the history of this nation."

"Despite all efforts of Demo-crats to stop it, President Eisen-hower's Administration did away with 90 per cent supports for the farmer," Johnson said of that "the Republican party is now pushing us into a third farm depression."

In an address beamed at city consumers as well as rural folk the Senate majority leader asserted that President Ensenhower's veto of the farm bill had cost farmers two billion dollars this year.

When farmers begin to be hurt, "sooner or later the rest of us will be in trouble too," he said.

Johnson appeared on radio and television networks as the Democratic party's answer to the President's broadcast of a week ago after he vetoed the farm bill as harmful to farmers and consumers. The networks granted the Democratic National Committee free time to answer the President.

CHANGES IN G.I. HOUSING LAW

ARE APPROVED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 24

(AP)—The House passed and sent to the Senate yesterday a bill making changes in the G.I. housing law.

The bill would:

1. Allow a World War II veteran to a purchaser of the veteran's home provided the VA accepts the purchaser. But on the lost his previous property through condemnation for public use, or through a "natural hazard" such as a fire or flood. The present home loan guarantee deadline for World War II veterans is July 25, 1957.

2. Allow War II veterans as a fire or flood. The present home loan guarantee deadline for World War II veterans as applications for home loans to be processed after the July 25, 1957, deadline.

An attempt to obtain a directive from the Missouri Public Service Commission authorizing fluoridation of St. Louis county water supplies as a dental health measure will be made for Fluoridation, it was decided at a meeting last night.

As a preliminary step, the league's executive committee was directed to ask the County League of Municipalities, individual eity officials, Parent-Teacher groups and labor organizations to urge their municipalities to go on record in favor of fluoridation. Department and what our foreign policy is.
Under our form of government the effectiveness of our nation's foreign policy depends in large measure upon public understanding and support of it. And our free society would indeed be in trouble without the diligent reporting and alert appraisal of world events that you make possible.

We are at a point in time

You make possible.

We are at a point in time when important events, occuring in rapid succession, change at the scene in Europe, in the Near East, in Asia, and in Russia. It seems that this second postwar decade upon which we have entered will mark a new phase in the struggle between the forces of despotism and the forces of freedom.

The first postwar decade was

The first postwar decade was marked by two sharply con-trasting trends. In those parts of the world where the West had been politically dominant, freedom flourished and inde-pendence spread.

freedom flourished and independence spread.
Since 1945 over 650,000 people, who were non-self-governing, have become 18 independent and sovereign nations.
On the other hand, during that decade, the Soviet type of Communist despotism, which ruled only 200,000,000 people up to 1945, aggressively extended its rule to nearly 700,000,000 more people belonging to what had been 13 independent nations.

ent nations.

Inevitably, these opposing trends to freedom and to despotism led to a sharp cleavage of the world. In response to the Soviet policies of violent expansion, the free nations drew close together. They submerged any differences of their own in the face of the threat of open aggression.

Since they could not depend on the United Nations Security Council, because of Soviet veto power, they created their own

Also, the free peoples built moral bulwarks. They unitedly condemned the violent and in-tolerant practices of Soviet Communism and made manifest their repugnance of Soviet desotism and its tactics. They ibjected the Soviet and Chi-moral, social and to some extent, economic ostracism.

By such measures, the free world found the ways to halt the Soviets in their hot pursuit of the free nations one by one.

But the policies of the free world were never designed to be purely defensive. Freedom is inherently dynamic and expansive. We renounce the use of force and violence to promote freedom, but we have sought in manifold other ways that Russia should be governed.

standards.

We are not dedicated to perpetual hatred of Russia. What we hate is the evil that Russia's rulers do. The arbitrary despotism of a police state, governmental intolerance and enforced conformity, the enslavement of people for the magnification of the state, the use of violence and the threat of violence in international relations, the use of fraud and trickery to corrupt and overthrow free governments—these are all things which we abhor and against which we stand.

But United States foreign

But United States foreign But United States foreign policy is not merely negative. We seek, above all, to advance the inevitable day when the historic friendship between the Russian and American peoples can again be fully manifested. Therefore, we take deep satisfaction from the fact that we can today see within Russia some signs of light which could mark the dawning of that new day.

The Soviet rulers who have replaced Stalin seem to have concluded that the time had come to present a "new look" at home and abroad.

In foreign affairs, the Soviet rulers now seek, in much of the rulers now seek, in much of the world, to present an aspect of conciliation. They talk softly of peaceful coexistence, and oft-en gear their diplomatic ac-tivity to economic "aid" rather en gear their diplomatic activity to economic "aid" rather than to threats of violence.

Within the Soviet Union
there is a change which is even more significant because, while its foreign policy is readily reversible, it is not casy to grass the consequences of internal liberalization. Stalin, the demigod, has been dethroned. "Collective leadership" now replaces one-man despotism. Violence is been curtailed.

There is greater tolerance of independent thinking and even the heresy of "Titoism" has been made respectable. There is an obvious effort to give individuals a sense of greater freedom and security and to respect the demands inherent in the higher and broader education of many of the Russian people.

Victous doctrinal works such people.

Vicious doctrinal works such as Stalin's "Short History of the Communist Party" have been withdrawn from circulation, and the fate of Stalin" "Problems of Leninism" remains in doubt. Those are the two works which for the last D years have been the "bible" of Soviet and world Communism. Soviet doctrine and history are currently being rewritten.

a few years ago. But satisfaction must be restrained.

Stalin has been demoted.
But we do not yet see, in the Soviet bloc, the reality of representative government or respect for the basic aspirations of the peoples.
The Soviet rulers profess to have resourced violence. But

The Soviet rulers profess to have renounced violence. But they press feverishly to develop their military establishment, particularly nuclear weapons and the means for their delivery.

The countries of eastern Europe, including East Germany, are still under the iron heel of Soviet force.

In Asia and the Near East the Soviet rulers have become merchants of hatred and formenters of violence.

In relation to Japan, Soviet foreign policy is thatted and formenters of violence.

In relation to Japan, Soviet foreign policy is still ugly in its aspect.

In some places Soviet foreign policy is thatted with economic lures which may superficially seem attractive. But close scrutiny shows that the bait is attached to a hook and that the hook is attached to a line, the other end of which is purpose, fully held by Moscow.

And, if they have admitted some of the lies and takes.

fully held by Moscow.

And, if they have admitted some of the lies and false testimony which marked political trials of the Stalin era, they have failed to repudiate two of the most outrageous lies ever perpetrated by any government, and both perpetrated by Stalin—the lie that South Korea was the aggressor in the Korean war, and the lie that the United Nations forces in that war used germ warfare against the Chinese Communists.

Khrushchev sald last Decement

Khrushchev said last Decem

Khrushchev said last December, "We never renounced and we will never renounce our ideas, our struggle for the victory of Communism."

So long as that victory is the Soviet goal; so long as it is backed by a vast military establishment and the underground apparatus of international Communism: so long as these inapparatus of international Communism; so long as these instruments are at the absolute disposal of despots who repudiate moral principles as restraint upon their conduct—so long as this combination exists, it would be folly for the free nations to consider that they can safely lower their guard and fall apart.
I have often said in relation to the Soviet Communist probjem that the moment of greatest danger would be the moment when we relaxed. Never

There is no longer the mood of fear that gripped the free world when in quick succession there occurred the Communist guerrilla war against Greece, the seizure of Czechoslovakia, the blockade of Berlin, and the armed attack upon the Republic of Korea. We would not, if we could, smother the hope that a benign transformation may have begun.

Soviet rulers and their agents, in their new garb, have somewhat greater acceptability, and therefore more chance for because that would make our tasks more simple.

We cannot undo the changes that have come upon the world. And we do not want to reverse what holds so much of promise, merely because it also holds some risk of loss. Our task is not to seek to reverse change, but to build constructively upon all the changes that hold a possibility of good. In that way we may make our hopes come true.

Because Soviet military capabilities remain so vast and because their intentions are subject to rapid change, we must maintain our vigilance and our strength. But also we must increase the unity and dynamism of the free world by greater emphasis on co-operation for something rather than merely against something. Let us exalt freedom by showing better what freedom can do.

President Eisenhower, speaking day before yesterday, outlined the task which lies before

All of this is immensely important. It is more than it we work apart. We can, in five work together than if we work apart. We can, in inversal peace and justice and human welfare.

We had all hoped that the United Nations would establish order on a universal basis. It has indeed done much in this respect and certainly we should do nothing to detract from the United Nations. It remains the corporation of United States nerstone of United States foreign policy.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization is another organization which, in its own distinctive way, contains the possibilities of great development. It was, to be sure, conceived primarily as a military alliance, and that aspect of the organization remains vitally important. But the organization can and should be more.

The Canadian Government has notably espoused this point of view and at last December's ministerial meeting of the council, both the French and Italian delegations introduced resolutions along this line. I expect that this matter will be dealt with further at next week's ministerial meeting to be held in Paris with further at next week's ministerial meeting to be held in Paris.

We basically have so much in common that we should be able to do more in common.

able to do more in common.

All of our peoples embrace a religious faith which makes atheistic materialism abhorrent to them. We have a common sense of moral values.

Our political institutions predominantly reflect democratic conceptions which had their origin in Greece, and legal institutions which had their origin in Rome.

The United States is a nation of the Americas and a Pacific nation. We are today members not only of NATO but of the Organization of American States, of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and several other collective defense treaties in the Pacific. We are associated with the Baghdad Pact.

We are associated with the Baghdad Pact. All NATO members would, I think, agree that NATO should not attempt to represent the totality of their policies.

We all believe that no gov-ernment has just powers ex-cept as it derives them from the consent of the governed. At the same time we all rec-ognize that political independ-ence is illusory unless those who obtain it are able to sus-tain it and carry its responsi-bilities.

denly and with all their might.

None of our governments is predatory. We want military power to be used as a community force to prevent aggression and not as a national force for aggrendizement. Indeed, the amended Brussels treaty for the Western European Union already sets an example in armament limitation which we can ask the whole world to follow.

No NATO member, I sup-pose, wishes to drift into some new and ill-defined relationship which could be provocative of which could be provocative of future misunderstandings. But the unanimity of our thinking upon the great hasic issues makes it apparent that the time has come to advance NATO from its initial phase into the totality of its meaning.

Western civilization has made an immense contribution to the welfare of the whole world. It has been a dynamic force which, like everything human, has made its mistakes. But on the whole it has reflected an enlightened view of the nature of man and of his God-given right to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. never enjoyed before.

But the mission of the West is not completed. More independence needs to be perfected. More economic development needs to be planned and supported throughout the world. More sense of equality and human brotherhood needs to be developed. Also, the West needs to appreciate better how rich are the gifts other civilizations have to offer.

The historic weakness of the West has been its disunity. Out of this disunity came wars which have taken the lifeblood of its finest youth and weakened its economies. A major task of postwar statesmanship was to find ways whereby the West can maintain its solidarity. Much has been done. But more can still be done to make sure that the good in western civilization is not again negated by differences.

The North Atlantic Treaty already serves as an indispensable and vital instrument of the Atlantic community. But the time has, I believe, come time nas. I believe, come to consider whether its organization does not need to be further developed, if it is adequately to serve the needs of this and coming generations. If that be the common desire of the NATO member nations, the United States will join eagerly in exploring the possibilities which now beckon us forward.

Miles no longer feel the same compulsion to submerge differences as when they faced together a clear and present danger.

Collective security arrangements, which were born primarily out of fear of armed aggression, seem to some less important now than five years ago.

Neutralism can now be plausibly portrayed as a safe and even profitable course.

Under these conditions our tasks are harder—so much so that some people regret the recent developments because they confuse what, until then, had been a rather simple scene.

This is not our view. Of course war, and danger of war, is a simplifier. When the issue is a simplifier. When the issue is a simplifier. When the issue is "who dies and who lives?" all other issues seem unimportant. But we do not want simplicity at that price. Nor do we intend to invoke needless fears and a sense of emergency because that would make our tasks more simple.

The New York Times New Service. Times 60.

NEW YORK, April 24 — A teamster union leader was accused yesterday of threatening an insurgent with death and using $25,000 of members' funds to defend himself against extortion charges.

Theodore G. Daley, an insurgent Poughkeepsie milk driver, testifying in United States district court, ascribed the actions to Francis Lester Stickel, longtime sccretary treasurer of Local 445 in Westchester county.

Daley appeared as a witness for Martin T. Lacey, who is seeking an injunction to preven his ouster as head of 125,000 teamsters here. A half houraliler, Lacey under crossexamination had conceded that he could not of his own knowledge back up his complaint that the election of John J. A Nov. 14 meeting, Daley said, discovered that minutes of the October session omitted any mention of the money dispute as well as "threats to myself by brother Massiello who said he would take care of me immediately outside after the meeting."

Daley has given an affidavit to the United States attorney's office here which went unmentioned yesterday, but which says he was hospitalized for three weeks after injuries when two wheels mysteriously flew off his truck Nov, 16.

The Dec. 12 meeting, with a turnout of 375 of 3000 members, well above normal, elected an anti-Stickel slate of officers despite posters that it had been called off by the Stickel executive board, Daley said, the constended the old officers' terms called off by the Stickel executive board, Daley said, the constended the old officers' terms expired Dec 21.

he could not of his own knowledge back up his complaint that the election of John J. O'Rourke as president would hand over the Teamsters Joint Council control here to gangsters and racketeers.

Daley testified that Stickel last Dec. 12 "told me that I'd get a hole between my eyes if I didn't watch my step." Nevertheless, Daley asserted his group that day elected him as a secretary-treasurer and expelled Stickel from membership because of his October conviction from milk truck drivers. Stickel led a delegation that cast seven of 16 challenged ballots for O'Rourke in the Feb. 14 election. The Teamsters' international office has upheld all 16 challenged ballots to declare O'Rourke elected, 197 to 192. Stickel contends the Daley election was illegal and is appealing his conviction.

Daley said that Stickel last October told rate members he had used $25,000 in the local's funds for his extortion defense. Thereupon, Daley a de d. Phillip Massiello, union business agent who was convicted with Stickel, moved to turn over the measure of the proposed and the hospital."

Bal Masque Italien was organized by the Women's Committee of the Friends of the City Art Museum. This is the third such gala ball to be held for the public in the Museum.

It is a matter of civic pride that our Museum has always competed on an equal basis with any and all museums in cities of comparable size. With the sharp rise in costs, however, the potential under the mill tax leaves little margin to uphold these standards. Therefore, the Bal Masque was inaugurated to supplement the Permanent Fund which will enable the Museum to add to its collections.

Pentagon Doesn't Challenge Khrushchev Boast of Missile With Hydrogen-Bomb Warhead

'No Reason to Question Accuracy' of Statement, Says Air Force Secretary Quarles-Russians Made Good on Previous Claims in Arms Race.

By BRIG. GEN. THOMAS R. PHILLIPS, U.S.A. (Ret.) Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 24 ECRETARY OF THE AIR FORCE DONALD A. QUARLES, questioned at a press conference yesterday about Soviet Communist Party Chief Nikita Khrushchev's boast that the Soviet Union "will have a guided missile with a hydrogen-bomb warhead that can fall anywhere in the world," said that he "had no reason to question the accuracy" of the Russian's

This is general attitude in the Pentagon toward Khrushchev's boast. It is recalled that Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. The division of work is one contractor in 1948 boasted that the secret of the atom bomb was in the possession of the Russians and the next year the Soviet Union exploded its first atom bomb, four years before American estimates deemed that it would be possible.

Former Premier Georgi Malenkov announced in July, 1953, that the Soviet Union had the hydrogen bomb secret. The Russians' nuclear weapon was in the possible of the solution of Long Range Missile Boasts.

Long Range Missile Boasts.

At the twentieth party Congress in Moscow in February, Khrushchev, Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Marshal Zhukov each boasted at Soviet long range missiles. They were not precise as to range, but implied that Soviet missiles could reach the United States.

Inasmuch as the Russians have in the past made good such boasts, there is no disposition here to doubt that they are well on the road to development of an intercontinental missile with a hydrogen ware well on the road to development of an intercontinental missile with a hydrogen ware head.

Khrushchev also claimed that the Russians had exploded an H-bomb in an air drop and called attention to the fact that the United States had not vet tists have solved the various will fatten out and where it may land, or if it will burn up before landing are unresolved problems. The heat from friction with the atmosphere will reach 30,000 degrees in seconds.

Defense officials who realize all of the problems involved are confident that while the Soviet Union may have a long-range missile, they do not have one with sufficient accuracy to make the bomber obsolete today and thus to change the military along the solution. The story is quite different when it concerns medium-range missiles such as might be fired in water, its trajectory will flatten out and where it may land, or if it will burn up before landing are unresolved problems. The heat from friction with the atmosphere will reach 30,000 degrees in seconds.

Defense officials who realize all of the problems involved are confident that while the Soviet Union may have a long-range missile, they do not have one with sufficient accuracy to make the bomber obsolete today and thus to change the military and thus to change the military and thus to change the military and the Soviet Union.

The story is quite different when it concerns medium-range missiles such as might be fired in water.

Mr. Khrushchev also claimed that the Russians had exploded an H-bomb in an air drop and called attention to the fact that the United States had not yet done so. This statement is true. It is expected that the United States will explode an H-bomb by air drop at the forthcoming tests in May.

The Russians also claim to e superior to the United States in the production of atomic and hydrogen weapons. Gen. Sergei Shatilov, in a broadcast Feb. 22, 1955, declared: "We have in 22, 1955, declared: "We have in our country atomic and hydro-gen weapons, the production of which, as is well known, has surpassed that of the Ameri-cans."

Varied Reaction.

The reaction in Washington as to the significance of Khrushchev's boast varied. Quarles maintained, as he had before Congress earlier, that for the next five to 10 years delivery of bombs by manned bombers would remain the more effective. ould remain the more effec-

For this reason, Quarles did not see the Soviet leader's state-ment as indicating any material change in the international sit-vation.

change in the intersection uation.

Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), Missouri, took a much more serious view. He called it a "significant and terrible warning to the American people and the world" if true.

If the statement is true, it does indicate that the Soviet Union is at least five years ahead of the United States in the development of long-range large enough to carry a thermo-nuclear warhead. Indicates U.S. Is Behind.

pailistic missiles.
Some officials in the Pentagon were inclined to discount Khrushchev's statement. They admit that it probably is possible to fire a missile 5000 miles if every effort is concentrated merely on distance.
The necessary pocket motors

Khrushelev made a point of the fact that the United States had not dropped a hydrogen bomb from the air. He indicated by this that the United States merely on distance.

The necessary rocket motors have been developed to give a two- or three-stage missile the necessary push. But this is quite different from landing it within 100 or within 500 miles of the target. Nor do they believe that the problem of re-entry into the atmosphere, without having the was behind in weapons devel-opment and that we had only exploded a thermonuclear in-stallation. It is, unfortunately, true that the Soviet thermonuclear bomb exploded in August, 1953, was of a composition that made it suitable for weapons use. The earlier United States thermonu the problem of re-entry into the atmosphere, without having the warhead burn up like a meteor, has been solved.

Allen Dulles suggested today that Khrushchev was evagger-ating in claiming Russia "quickly" will have an H-bomb missile.

(Commenting on Khrushchev's claim, Dulles told reporters:

("I don't think he is given to minimizing things.

("I think what he had to say is a little bit on the high side.")

("I think what he had to say is a little bit on the high side.")

Khrushchev did not indicate what kind of a missile he was talking about—a bailistic missile or an air-breathing unmanned aircraft. The United States's air-breathing missile, the Snark, has a range of 9000 miles, but the United States has not done much boasting about it. The problem of accuracy has not been solved.

The United States, after serious delays and neglect, is now going all-out to develop an intercontinental ballistic missile. The Atlas has been under development for some time by Convair. A second contractor, Martin, is now at work on the airframe of another 5000-mile missile—the Titan.

The missile program finally is adequately financed. Even the enthusiastic Trevor Gardner, recently resigned as Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for research and development agreed that the missile program had enough money.

CHILDS

Democrats Hit Hard at G.O.P. Program, Public Appears Cool.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS A Washington Correspondent of the Post Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 24.

F there is one thing the Democrats are able to agree on in this political year when so many issues divide them it is that foreign-defense policy will be a major line of attack in the fall campaign. Candidates Stevenson, Harriman, Kefauver, Symington, Lyndon B. Johnson all are coming down hard on the Eisenhower Administration for failures of omission and commission in the foreign and defense fields. defense fields.

They have each in their sev-They have each in their several ways challenged the President and his Secretary of State to come up with news oncepts and new plans to meet the Soviet shift of tactics represented by the bid for economic co-operation and peaceful coexistence offered to the world by the two traveling salemen. by the two traveling salesmen of Communism. Party of Communism, Party Boss Nikita Khrushchev and Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin. The President and Secretary John Foster Dulles have replied with speeches to which no one could take exception since they express sincere good intentions to try harder and do better.

But these declarations are cloaked in words of vague good will. That is true particularly of Dulles's speech to the Asso-ciated Press which is studded with the often repeated "Dulles-iers" when words values are isms" about moral values and ommon aspirations.

Hint of Co-operation Plan. Press reports of the Dulles speech contained a hint apparently inspired by the State Department that a plan of eco-nomic co-operation would be unveiled at the meeting of and Italy. United States scientunveiled at the meeting of North Atlantic treaty foreign ministers next week. It was even suggested that something like the Marshall plan for Eu-ropean economic co-operation, initiated in 1947, was in the works. ists have solved the various problems for a missile of such range. implied Threat.

Implied Threat.

How the Russians might use possession of an intermediate missile with a hydrogen warhead is indicated by the implied threat against Britain in the Khrushchev remark. It was stated even more directly in regard to Italy over the Moscow radio on Feb. 11, 1955. The speaker said "10 thermonuclear bombs of the latest type would be sufficient to destroy the whole of Italy."

With an intermediate missile, Insofar as this reporter has been able to learn, this is a gross exaggeration. At the NATO meeting Dulles will give approval to steps toward the greater use of NATO for both economic and political co-opera-tion. But this will all take place behind closed doors and will be reflected merely in the communiques to be issued at the end of each session.

For many months Canada's Foreign Minister Lester Pear-With an intermediate missile, the Russians could spread this the Russians could spread this sort of fear to all Europe.
The United States is proceeding along two distinct lines to develop a 1500-mile missile. One project under the Army and Navy combined is going forward at Redstone Arsenal, where the Army with the help of German scientists has developed the highly satisfactory Redstone missile with a range admitted to be 200 miles, but probably in actuality about 600. son has been pushing in this son has been pushing in this direction, arguing that the language of Article 2 in the NATO treaty provides ample justification for using the alliance to further common economic and political goals. Other NATO nations have also sought to push the United States in this direction but with little success.

Unsuccessful Efforts.

At the time of the defeat of the European defense commu-nity treaty in August 1954, the movement toward economic and political unification in Europe was given a serious setback. Ever since then efforts have been made to further this unity admitted to be 200 miles, but probably in actuality about 600. The Redstone project will work to increase the range of its perfected missile, probably by making it in two stages, to from 1500 to 2000 miles.

As concerns applying a thermonuclear warhead, this is considered the least difficult of the problems. Even the short-range Redstone, with a diameter of between five and six feet, is large enough to carry a thermobeen made to further this unity through other means. Spon-sors of the six-nation European coal and steel community have

Scholars Say Radical Change In U.S. Foreign Policy Is Needed

Community of Feeling and Interest With Underdeveloped Areas Urged to Combat Pull of Communism.

> By DONALD GRANT A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. (LAST OF A SERIES)

NDIA'S philosopher Vice President, Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan, last year gave an American newspaper correspondent a piece of advice to pass on to the people of the United States. "Stand by the principles that made America great," he said, "and America will achieve real world leadership. Do not rely on mere expediency or you will lose everything."

The American Revolution was an anti-colonial revolution which continues to be the inspiration of people still under colonial domination in Asia, the Middle East, Africa and Latin America. It is a point of con-America. It is a point of con-tact with other people in these areas newly freed from colonialism. Together, these people form a majority of the world's population, the majority which holds the balance of power between Soviet Russia and the United States.

The Softer Russia.

Soviet Russia has softened up the old pelice state estab-lished under Lenin and made rigid by the late dictator, Josef Stalin. It has presented a new and friendlier facade to the world and is concentrating its efforts on an attempt to subvert the underdeveloped areas in Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America.

Among such students there is a remarkable degree of agreement that the United States should change its emphasis in foreign affairs. Almost to a man they believe we should maintain our military defenses, but concentrate on seeking to associate ourselves with the aspirations of the people in the underdeveloped areas of the world, so they will not be led to tip the world balance of power against us.

Spelled out in somewhat less inspirational language, this is about the conclusion that the best academic students of Russian-American relations have reached as they contemplate recent changes inside Soviet Russia and their implications for the United States.

The American Revolution was States has the largest aggregate of economic resources in the world, this is the point at which a community of interest and feeling best might be created.

It is said that such a project is fully consistent with American traditions, that Thomas Jefferson spoke as a citizen of the world as much as a citizen of the United States.

Economic Aid Not French

Economic Aid Not Enough. It is a mistake, by this view, to think that it will be sufficient merely to increase our "eco-nomic aid" to the underde-veloped areas. This very phrase, it is pointed out, implies an act of charity. In fact, we need the people of the underde-

Your Lawyer and Your Will

SKILLFUL lawyer will try to draw your will so that A it will adapt itself to changing circumstances. For example, he can draw your will so as to provide benefits for your children or grandchildren who may be born after its date as well as those who were born prior to the execution of your will. He can give the trustee extremely broad management and investment powers so that the trustee will be adequately equipped to meet almost any circumstances of an investment or management nature that may arise in

If your will provides substantial bequests for charity or for beneficiaries other than the members of your immediate family he may guard against the danger that such bequests would become too large a proportion of your estate in the event that its value should shrink drastically. He can do so by providing that in no event shall the total of such bequests exceed more than a stated percentage of your estate and in the event they do so they will be cut down pro rata and he can provide that such bequests will be eliminated entirely if your estate falls below a specified

Although a skillful lawyer can draw your will in such a way that deaths or births in the family, changes in your financial circumstances or in the character of your assets will not require the will to be redrawn, it is none the less advisable to have him review it periodically. Sometimes situations may arise that could not have been anticipated and for which no advance provision could have been made in the will. For example, in 1948 changes in the tax laws first permitted married people in certain cases to cut their estates in half for tax purposes. This provision which is still in the law has rendered many wills of married persons drawn before 1948 obsolete.

Your will should be drawn by your own lawyer. He can draw it in such a way that it seldom will need revision. But none the less it is advisable to review it with him periodically to be sure that circumstances have not changed in such a way as to make revision

Your will is not only a legal document but it is also a financial and business plan for the distribution of your assets and for their conservation and management. Our officers will be glad to confer with you about the financial, business and other non-legal aspects of your estate plan. They will gladly cooperate with your own lawyer. Indignation a Little Late

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I do not feel grieved as I stand on the sidelines and observe your paper waxing hot in righteous indignation over the failure of the State of Missouri to obtain interest from banks and, depositories on state funds.

In the crucial year of 1945 after a fiery campaign in which you urged them to do so, the people of Missouri voted to adopt a new Constitution. You told them that the old Constitution of 1875 was frayed and antiquated and out of date. I'm surprised Mr. Marriott didn't play some more of that old wornout record — perhaps by labeling wars occurring during the previous administrations "Roosevelt's war" and "Truman's war," and delegating full personal responsibility for all the world's troubles during that period to Roosevelt and Truman.

Then he should assert that Ike's—Administration stopped the war, without, of course, any help from those who had tried to secure an horigrable peace.

Régistering School Voters

we Editor of the Fort-Dispatch; I would like to add my bit to the blect of school elections in St. suis county. Why doesn't the law quire that a voter be duly registed? I should think it would be simple thing under existing rules stuff the ballot boxes to "put er" a tax increase.

As others have previously stated, these certainly isn't anything demoratic about the elections. The school districts seem to hold themselves above the law of the land.

Frankly, I think a citizens' group should be organized to correct the obvious un-American methods used in Missouri school of them.

WILLIAM HARKINS.

The Door Can Be Opened

Attorney General Brownell has given Congress an able argument for opening the nation's foors a little wider to immigration, but the issue arises late in an election year.

Mr. Brownell went before the Senate Judiciary subcommittee to support President Eisenhower's proposals offered in February. The Attorney General suggested increasing immigration quotas by 65,000 a year-from the present

A small part of the general increase would apply to refugees with special skills, an smaller nations and those in Asia and Africa which have infinitesimal quotas. But the principal point of the plan is to distribute about 54,000 new refugee permits to foreign countries in proportion to the immigration from them between 1924 and 1955.

This proposal would at least put a small dent in the "national origins" theory which Congress adopted a quarter-century ago. Under that theory, quotas are based on the nationalities and racial origins of the American people according to the 1920 census.

The purpose was, of course, to keep immigration somewhat in balance with America's "original settlers"-though if the system had been adopted at any time prior to World War I it would have drastically changed the complexion of the American population today. For the na-tion was built by succeeding waves of immigration from different nations without much legal

Richard Arens, subcommittee counsel, asked if the Administration program would not shift the "cultural pattern" of immigration from northern and western Europe to southeastern Europe. Mr. Brownell objected to the term "cultural pattern."

The Attorney General might just as well have conceded that the whole purpose of the plan was to provide a more realistic basis for admitting immigrants, and he could have defended it strongly for that reason. In recent years the northern European countries have not fully used their immigration quotas, while some southern European countries have not only used them up but mortgaged them far into the future.

The Administration plan would amend the origins theory to bring it more nearly up to date with recent immigration pressures. But actually the whole theory is outmoded, impractical and insulting to many peoples who are, in effect, told that they are not potentially as good citizens as other more favored peoples. Brownell recognized this fact in urging, as the President had done, that Congress consider an entirely new immigration policy.
Unfortunately while the demand for new policy has been almost unanimous among Govern-ment leaders, the two parties and major candidates, action is nil. Senator Lehman, New York Democrat, and a bipartisan Senate group long ago offered legislation to do just what Mr. Brownell says Congress should study doing.

Now even the modest Administration proposal faces the cross fires of an election campaign. Yet if the parties, and their leaders really mean what they say about a new immigration policy, they can prove it before Congress adjourns.

No Alternative to Mr. Mosley?

Former Sheriff Mosley's late filing for 'the office from which the Missouri Supreme Court saw fit to oust him presents a clear challenge to the county's Republican Committee. If there is anything at all to the theory of party respon sibility, then the G.O.P. committee certainly owes the voters an outstanding alternative to Mr. Mosley. There have been plenty of signs that he contemplated a race for "vindication. And if the Republican organization has eyes to see it couldn't have missed them. Failure of the committee to offer G.O.P. party members an acceptable alternative to Mr. Mosley, even at this late hour, may hurt the whole ticket come next November.

Reply to the Veto

Senator Lyndon Johnson's reply to President Eisenhower on the farm bill was politically effective, but somewhat misleading.

The Texas Senator made fullest use of President Eisenhower's 1952 campaign promises of price supports at 90 per cent of parity, with 100 per cent "in the market place."

A close listener to most of those campaign speeches could discern that Gen. Eisenhower was limiting his commitment to the period of the then existing farm law, which was due to expire at the end of 1954. But in some of his speeches he neglected to make this qualification got a strong impression that he and the G.O.P. stood firmly behind 90 per cent supports.

To exploit this point in a political speech was fair game for Senator Johnson. not point out is that the farm bill which President Eisenhower vetoed, and which the Democratic floor leader vigorously defended, likewise embodied a limited commitment. It reone year.

other words, the farm bill, like some of President Eisenhower's farm speeches in 1952, was intended to carry its sponsors through a campaign year but not necessarily to establish a permanent farm policy. And the reason for this ressional hesitation is the very good one that high and fixed price supports on a few politically important crops do not constitute a sound permanent farm policy.

Essentially, the Eisenhower Administration has been right in trying to get away from high, fixed price supports, and wrong in failing to work out effective alternative methods of bolstering farm income. Unfortunately the Dem-ocratic leadership has been just as negligent in the latter respect. On an emergency basis, it can to some degree justify its demand for 90 per cent supports on the ground that nothing else is being done to raise farm income. But the real challenge is to devise better ways of restricting United States contributions to the International Labor Organization in Geneva un-less its Soviet bloc delegates are ousted. The ILO, once headed by the late Ambassador

John Winant, was established under League of Nations auspices and taken over as one of the Nations auspices and taken over as one of the agencies of the United Nations. Thus its membership may be expected to be as broad as that of the U.N. itself. Indeed some nations were admitted to membership in subsidiary U.N. groups such as the World Health Organization even before being admitted to the U.N. It is proper that these agencies should be as nearly universal as Bricker's anti-ILO rider, which received solid Republican support, was attached to a bill pro-viding a relatively small increase in the funds the United States may make available to these agencies. His insistence that the United States contribution to ILO be limited rather than increased if Soviet delegates are allowed to vote reflects his hostility to the U.N. itself and his feeling against international co-operation in general. It seems impossible to convince Senator Bricker and his followers that this is bad diplomacy. But since the Administration op-posed the move, better judgment should have been shown by the 35 Republican and eight Dem-ocratic Senators who took this backward step.

Dulles vs. Khrushchev

Since President Eisenhower was disappointingly general in his address on foreign policy to the American Society of Newspaper Editors it was only natural to hope that Secretary of State Dulles would be more specific when he spoke Monday to the American Newspaper Publishers Association under the auspices of the Associated Press.

Here is the key paragraph in Secretary Dulles's address—the paragraph on which the news editors of the country wrote their headlines:

No North Atlantic Treaty, Organization member, I suppose, wishes to drift into some new and ill-defined relationship which would be productive of misunderstandings. But the unanimity of our thinking upon the great basic issues makes it apparent that the time has come to advance NATO from its initial phase into the totality of its meaning.

Now just what do these words mean? What is "the totality of NATO's meaning?" What "advance" does the Eisenhower Administration propose? What is the "new and ill-defined relationship" that we must not allow ourselves to "drift into?" If we are now to pass from NATO's "initial phase," how are we to avoid the "fu-ture misunderstandings" that Secretary Dulles

Actually the Secretary of State spoke so murkily that the news reporting services found it necessary to comment on its lack of clarity. The United Press said "Dulles did not spell out his ideas on a closer union, but indicated that he was thinking in terms of greater economic and political co-operation." The Associated Press said that "it was not clear from Dulles's language, whether he might be referring to the Middle East disputes." It is inconceivable that the Eisenhower Administration, whatever handicaps it suffers in White House staff, cannot do better than it has done in these last two "major addresses." First, the President speaks in such generalities that an audience strongly favorable to him is obvi-ously let down. Then the Secretary of State emits an address so muddy, by design apparently, that the news agencies make explanations

If this Dulles essay was intended to impress the world, we suspect it fell pretty flat. On the same day, Communist Party Boss Khrushchev told jeerers in Birmingham, England:

Never shake your fist at a Russian. We shall have in the near future a guided mis-sile with an H-bomb warhead which can hit every point in the world.

The Soviet boss was sabre-rattling and verbally aking his own fist in contrast to the commend able efforts of the Eisenhower Administration in behalf of peace. But Khrushchev at least managed to get his meaning out. Spokesmen for peace need to be clear, appealing and perasive. No one should ever need to ask what the President or the Secretary of State means when one of them attempts to advance the cause of peace.

Screen Down, Stage Up

Why is the United States motion picture theater industry as a whole losing money on showing films, and relying for its profits on its ability to sell popcorn, candy and soft drinks? For that the picture of its status painted by a film market analyst, Albert E. Sindlinger. Operating losses for the past five months have totaled $8,000,000 and theater income for that period was a fifth less than for the corresponding period a year earlier, the analyst told exhibitors.

Since most other businesses are enjoying a boom, the movies' slip backward is a particularly startling phenomenon. Exhibitors are blaming the 10 per cent federal tax and the producers' rental prices for films. They boosted admission prices, as a group, 15 cents, on the average, during the past year. Few seem to be asking whether the motion picture may be going the way of vaudeville because of having taken only a shallow hold, culturally, on American life, in the more than half century of its existence.

With the treasure and talent at its disposal, istry could most productive sources of dramatic literature not only in this country but in the world. Yet how many plays which originated as movies, and were then adapted to the legitimate stage, can the moviegoer call to mind?

Works that have taken the opposite routecreated by and for the stage, and taken over parasitically by the movies—are legion.

The relative sterility of the movie industry as a creative source of dramatic literature has been amazing, and it may be relevant. Both in quality and in profit the legitimate theater on Broadway has just been blessed with one of its most successful years. Why this striking disparity-and without the advantage of wide screen, curved screen, deep screen, popcorn, soda water, or chocolate bars?

Tyrrell Williams was long one of the intellectual adornments of this community and Chief Justice Vanderbilt is a fitting selection to help keep green the memory of the noted Washington Univer-

There is another reason why it is good to have Judge Vanderbilt here. So much attention goes to federal courts and federal judges that there is a tendency to overlook the fine ork done by many State Supreme Court judges. Yet the great Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr. was first an outstanding judge on the high court of Massachusetts and Benjamin N. Cardozo was already celebrated as Chief Judge in New York, before he was appointed to the Supreme Court. And in Cleveland's time, Judge John Scholfield of the Illinois Supreme Court turned down the chief justiceship in Washington to coninue his judicial work in Springfield.

Chief Justice Vanderbilt, a former president of the American Bar Association and former an of law at New York University, has performed many missions for the legal profession and for the Supreme Court. But his greatest distinction is that he has striven successfully to lift the level of the New Jersey courts from their sad estate a decade ago to their present high plane, as an article in the May issue of Harper's relates. Arthur T. Vanderbilt deserves all the recognition he has received.

Toronto Didn't Swallow Its Suburbs

The Mirror Public Opinion

Newspaper suggests that committee studying Chicago's metropolitan problems ought to look at Toronto-and it would pay St. Louis to look, too; Toronto compromised with annexation, set up a corporation to plan for whole area, operate unified services.

From the Chicago Daily Tribune

The Illinois legislative commission surveying the problems of the Chicago metropolitan area would be well justified in a study of Toronto, which set out five years ago to organize governmental co-operation between the city and its rapidly growing suburbs.

The Toronto example is of particular

The Toronto example is of particular interest to Chicagoans because the solution there, or the attempted solution, was achieved without the annexation of the suburbs to the city. That was as bitterly opposed by the suburbanites there as annexation is in Cook county.

Toronto, the chief city of Optaries

Toronto, the chief city of Ontario and the second in Canada, has many points in common with Chicago. The suburban population is roughly 40 per cent of that of the metropolitan area, a what higher proportion than it is

As a compromise with annexation, the Ontario parliament created a metro politan corporation, which took over certain fufficions from both the city and suburbs, while leaving them free to run the rest of their affairs.

The corporation runs unified water supply and sewage disposal systems. It subsidizes schools by a general tax on the whole area, but if local communities than these foundation payments permit they are free to do so.

The corporation is the planning authority for the area. Super-highway construction and park creation had been stymied for years by jealousies between different communities. Now a park and solution to this perplexing problem.

Mr. Malin said that the censorship of comic books on the basis that only children's reading would be affected could not be sustained on the available evidence of vast adult readership of such fare. He added that banning the sale of comics to children under a certain age was not practical to enforce. He attacked the volunteer citizen's group, or "watchdog committee." Although they had the right as individuals to decide what they or their children should read, he said that "concerted action, designed to decide the reading fare of the entire community, imposes the will of one group on other persons and constitutes an attempt to enforce conformity, at practice alien to the American Idea of free choice."

Monroe Froelich Jr., secretary and treasurer of the Comics Magazine Association of America, held up the self-censorship program of the Comic Magazine Association as eliminating "all that was undesirable in the comic book field." Mr. Malin, however, attacked all

When a municipality wants to bond itself for some public purpose, it must obtain the approval of the corporation, which then sells its bonds, secured by all the property in the metropolitan area. The individual municipality levies the taxes to retire the bonds. The scheme amounts to an indorsement of the credit of weaker communities by the stronger ones. the stronger ones.

Not all of the problems of the Chicago area parallel those in Toronto. We have a sanitary district to take care of sewage disposal for most of Cook country, though adjoining counties are encountering, sewage problems as their suburbs grow. State school subsidies take the place here of those provided by the metropolitan corporation in Toronto and its suburbs.

But the Toronto plan should appeal to the Chicago area for the very reason that it is a halfway measure, designed to meet the same objections that are to meet the raised here.

It leaves to local authority the ad-ministration of schools and the control of police, two functions that Chicago suburbs will not yield willingly to an enlarged Chicago, and with them most of the tasks of municipal housekeeping that are often most efficient when they are run close to home.

Mr. Froelich pointed out that in 1955, 103 separate pieces of legislation pertaining to the distribution and sale of comic books and/or magazines and books were introduced in 32 states, Alaska and Hawaii. Both Mr. Froelich and Mr. Malin were in agreement that the organizations they represented felt a number of these laws could not meet constitutional standards.

Dr. Fredric Wertham brought to-gether in a book written not so long ago a mass of evidence, with reproduc-tions of lurid illustrations, constitut-ing a strong indictment of the horror and crime comics. Moreover on both shores of the Atlantic there has been a great amount of spoken and written

Patroller of MIG Alley THE HUNTERS, by James Salter. (Harper, 244 pgs., $3.)

Every now and then a reader comes across a novel that has been created from an authentic vision of reality, and from an authentic vision of reality, and written with ease and economy simply for the sake of communicating that reality. Such a novel is James Salter's story of the fighter pilots of the U.S. Air Force who patrolled MIG Alley during the Korean War. It is a novel of day-to-day flying in war but without the calculated dramatic effect or heightened plot interest of "The Bridges at Toko-ri," and for that reason it is a finer novel than Mr. Michener's story of the Navy carrier pilots.

The forays of the USAF's elite fight-

The forays of the USAF's elite fight-r-interceptor wings along the Yalu perimeter of the Communists' Manchur-ian sanctuary resulted in a ratio of bet-ter than 14 MIGs destroyed for every F-86 Sabrejet lost in aerial combat. Be-tween 1950 and 1953, 38 USAF fighter pilots scored five tween 1950 and 1953, 38 USAF fighter pilots scored five or more aerial kills to win the coveted title of "Ace." The top Kore an ace, Capt. Joseph McConnell Jr., shot down 16 enemy aircraft, but hundreds of good fighter pilots completed their tours of duty in Korea without ever getting close enough to a MIG to fire their guns or test their valor. Capt. Cleve Saville, who had won an afreo-air gunnery meet at Las Vegas, and flown as a member of a crack fighter acrobatic team, went to Korea lusting for combat glory. Despite his impressive reputation as a fighter pilot in his squadron at Kimpo airfield near Seoul, Capt. Saville soon learned that MIGs were hard to find.

seoul, Capt. Saville soon learned that MIGs were hard to find.

Flying missions in MIG Alley, Capt. Saville could see rows of gleaming MIG-15s lined up at Antung airfield—on the wrong side of the river. It was a hard bitter air war with all the cards stacked in favor of the enemy. Because of the MIG's altitude capability, which the F-86s couldn't match, the Communist pilots who ventured across the Yalu would fight only when they chose to do so.

At length Capt. Saville gets his first victory, but the weeks pass before he can get another. Everyone is waiting for him to make it. He is a flight leader and is expected to make kills. It is his daily hunting of the enemy in the hope of achieving a kill that provides the tense theme of the story. Finally he gets his second kill and it is an important one, but then it becomes his turn to meet death as the hunter becomes the hunted in the hostile skies of North Korea.

This story of an F-86 pilot who never became an ace is a stirring tribute to all of the courageous and capable American pilots who made sure, throughout the Korean War, that not a single United Nations unit, installation, or ship was ever hit during daylight hours by the numerically-superior enemy air force. numerically-superior enemy air force. A HISTORY OF EUROPE, by Hearl Firenas. (University Scot., 435 pp., 17:29.)

While a prisoner of the Germans during World War I, Henri Pirenne, a leading Belgian historian, decided writing was the best way to save himself from a nervous breakdown. His history of Europe, now published in America for the first time, from the Barbarian invasions of Rome through the Reformation is the result of that decision. It is now popular for writers, politicians and statesmen to invoke the image of "Western Civilization" without discussing its basis. Hence, this study of the so-called Dark Ages and the subsequent flowering of Europe has a timely and special interest for the general reader, since it carefully discusses more than one thousand years of history that has shaped the West.

While Southerners are talking so feverishly about plans which bode no good to their public schools they profitably might take time out to consider a recent Army report on the wide-spread illiteracy among recruits from Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida.

The report shows more than a fourth of such recruits under 20 years of age failed to pass the Army literacy test while 52.7 per cent were adjudged educationally unprepared for any advanced training. In other words, a majority could perform none but the most elementary Army duties. These unhappy figures should stimulate these states to provide more and better schools to do their duty even in the elementary area of national defense.

G.O.P. Fails Administration.

The Senate's action was discouraging.

For one thing, most Republicans deserted the Administration on this international co-tion on this international co-operation issue to support Sen-ator Bricker, including the par-ty leader—Senator Knowland of California—who, it may be recalled, also supported the Bricker amendment. The 43 to 40 vote divided thus: 35 Republicans for the ILO amendments, eight against: Democrats supporting the amendment, eight, with 32

Casting his eyes over the tabulation, Senator Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, said the vote shows "that in the case of vital questions dealing with foreign policy the President finds his chief support on this side of the siele less the ILO bars Soviet employer and employe representatives from that body which it is hardly likely to do, since Russia as a U.N. member'has as much right as do we or any other member nation to be in ILO.

The vote was disappointing also in revealing an immaturity and lack of confidence in ourselves on the world stage which was commented on in the Senate debate, perhaps most aptly by Senator Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, who said:

"Are we saying that a delegate of a free trade union in the United States or a free delegate from an industrial establishment in the United States is incapable of dealing with or ar-

'TEAHOUSE' RETURNS TO THE AMERICAN

Play of Wit and Charm Is Season's Final Attraction at Theater

John Patrick's comedy, "The Teahouse of the August Moon," returned to the American Theater last night for its second visit, and demonstrated that, like a gushing mountain spring, it is always refreshing. The good-sized audience, out for the last attraction of the season at the theater, enjoyed litself immensely. For this is a piece full of wit and infectious charm. Its satire ranges from the sly By MYLES STANDISH of wit and infectious charm.
Its satire ranges from the sly and, specifically, the passion of the United States Army as personified by Col. Purdy, to infuse democracy into the placid Okidemocracy into the placid Oki-nawans if he has to "shoot every damn one of them to do it."

The play is one of those fortunate ones which seems to be actor-proof. This is not meant to be a reflection on last night's cast, headed by Larry Parks. It is an excellent one. It is merely that the play's merits don't depend on the individual magnetism of any particular. magnetism of any particular stars; it seems to be equally en-joyable with any competent actors.

Of course, Parks's role as the quaintly glib rascal, Sakini, the interpreter, is the keynote of the whole affair. He personifies the droll way in which the nativest alude impropagation. tives elude improvement and Plan B for their economic resurrection, and continue to revel in the joys of backward living, such as knocking off work for the role that it called for as he

Col. Purdy, high prophet of Plan B, who threatened to blow a gasket every time he encountered the work of Sakini and Capt. Fisby. This is a role close to caricature which Mr. Patrick has created in his comic Army as a foil for Sakini, but it is juicy, amusing and bold drawing. Our old friend from Empress Playhouse days, Don Lochner, contributed a diverting performance, too, as Capt. McClean, the Army psychiatrist, who is quite as eccentric as the man he was sent out to examine, Capt. Fisby.

The play, which won the Pullitzer Prize and New York Drama Critics Award in its.long Broadway run and is currently being toured ir the United States by three companies, will run through Saturday.

By a schedule quirk Cincinnati will be here for just one game and the Chicago Cubs will call for only one contest, too, before the Cardinals leave for a four-game weekend series at Milwaukee.

Scantlebury, Tebbetts's probable pitcher, is a Panamanian Negro, listed at 30 and said by the Harlem Globetrotters' Abe-Saperstein to be 45. At Hawans in the International League last year the latter-day and left-handed Satchel Paige thad a 13-9 won-and-lost record and a more significant 1.90 E.R.A. However, he was knocked out in the sixth inning of the second game of the season at Crosley Field, where the Redlegs beat the Redbirds, 10 to 9 in 10 innings.

SHOTS McKinley and Central Sidelined in State Baseball Play

THE mob scene that interrupted the Kutis-Eagles national Amateur Cup soccer match at Chicago Sunday, served as a reminder to St. Louisans that soccer crowds in St. Louis have been on their good behavior for some years. This is especially true where intercity games are concerned. No visiting player here has been subjected to anything worse than a loud booing, and visitors are often encouraged by apare often encouraged by ap-

There is no inclination whatever on the part of Ku-fis players to make it unpleasant for the Eagles players when they come here Sunday because of what Chicago fans did to the St. Louis players.

"If the fans had behaved "If the fans had behaved there would have been no trouble last Sunday," is the way Harry Keough, Kutis captain, put it. "That fellow Tybor was trying all afternoon to trip me," is Ruben Mendoza's comment. "But I'm not thirsting for vengeance. We'll get along all right on the field. It's the Chicago fans that I'm sore at."

There are apt to be repercussions from the squabble at Chicago. The "home" club, Eagles, can expect to be rep-rimanded, possibly fined, by the Illinois State Soccer Commission for not providing bet-ter control of spectators.

The announced plan of the Eagles to refuse to come to St. Louis for the second game of the series. Sunday, met with a prompt reply from officials of the United States Soccer Football Association. The Eagles were potified by ficials of the United States Soccer Football Association. The Eagles were notified by the U.S.F.A. that failure to appear here Sunday would result in a "heavy" fine. "And," the notice from the national governing body said, "the club will be suspended and remain under suspension until such fine is paid," Under the circumstances, the Kutis management expects the Eagles to be here on time. The game is to be at Oakland Stadium.

Criticize Olympic Picks.

Criticize Olympic Picks.

Some well-informed Chicago people are not accepting the United States Olympic squad selection at face value. There is criticism of the absence of good wing halfbacks and wing forwards. They do not consider their own Chicago player, Bill Conterio, an outstanding halfback (he's slowed up by two years of Army duty); they say Zenon Snylyk (a wing half or inside forward) has not been a consistent star in Chicago league games, and they feel that there is not a wing forward on the squad of international caliber.

Although the Kutis team

national caliber.

Although the Kutis team was impressive in winning over the Eagles at Chicago under most trying conditions, with a hostile erowd lining the field, it remains several degrees below the Kutis team that has Bob Rooney, Rich Meisemann and Tom Julius in action. They are baseball "professionals," hence ineligible for Amateur Cup play.

The Amateur Cup team's The Amateur Cup team's weaker spots now are Russ Murphy's hesitant, indecisive back-up game at left full-back; and lack of a capable center forward to replace Rooney. Clem Niewoehner does not have the subtle touches needed to break down the close covering by a good center half, so is not the complete answer at center forward. Jim Murphy, a promising wing halfback, does not feel at home as a forward. Neither does Freddie Vasquez Notifier does Freddie Vasquez fill the bill as an inside forward when Bill Looby is tried at center. And when Ruben Mendoza doesn't have a teammate at inside right of his own caliber he tries to do two men's work. And that's a killing pace.

Medinning Beaumont

By John J. Archibald.

Two teams with colorful state baseball tournament histories, Central and McKinley, were knocked out in first round games yesterday, but two others who need only a Missouri trophy in baseball to complete their ample display cases moved forward carrying big sticks. Beaumont and St. Louis U. High are the powers on the move and between them they scored 28 runs in the openers.

No Luck in the Draw.

Although they have been one of the best prep teams on local diamonds nearly every year, Beaumont's Bluejackets have always had ill luck in the big tournament. Part of the misfortune has come in the drawings for opponents and their ings for opponents, and their luck in this respect is no better this year for now the Jackets must meet the winner of the game between strong Ritenous High and Sumner.

Against capable McKinley however, Beaumont appeared to be as serious a threat for the to be as serious a threat for the long-sought trophy as it ever has been. Unless East St. Louis's athletes are more susceptible to cold weather than other contenders, the Flyers aren't expected to have much trouble in winning their ninth consecutive Southwestern Conference night. Preliminaries start at 5:30 and the finals at 7:30

The East St. Louis team indicated its continued strength with a fairly easy triumph in the West Frankfort Relays, where they set four records.

Hollywood Park Is Trying to Arrange Swaps, Nashua Race

INGLEWOOD, Calif., April (AP)-Hollywood Park offi-

24 (AP)—Hollywood Park officials said they are trying to arrange the third meeting between Swaps and Nashua, America's two greatest racehorses, for a purse of $200,000.

The rubber match between Swaps, Rex Ellsworth's giant 4-year-old, and the syndicateowned Nashua is tentatively set one of several big races at Hollywood Park's summer season that gets under way May 11.

Swaps won the Kentucky Derby last year, whipping a field that included Nashua.

WHEN Bobby Bragan was in New York as the licensed manager of the Pirates, he was asked what had been the first lesson he learned as a manager, after finishing the homework assigned by Branch Rickey. (It was Rickey who sent him out from Brooklyn to begin his apprenticeship as a manager in the minors, first requiring him to study and copy in longhand the major league agreement and the majorminor agreements so he would have more than the average ball player's understanding of the structure of organized baseball.) NEW YORK, April 24. night at Edwardsville, succeeding Sheriff Kenneth T. Oule.

A member of a rising younger element in the Madison county Democratic organization, McConnell was supported by old line politicians as well as the group who upset party leaders in the April 10 primary. Both Ogle and State's Attorney Fred P. Schuman were defeated for reelection as precinct committeemen in the primary.

W. W. Billings, nominated for over men supported by Ogle and Schuman, spoke at the organization meeting and were roundly applauded.

"I think I got some pretty good advice before I left Brooklyn," Bragan said, "from Leo Durocher. He said, 'You're going to be a manager? Don't worry about it. You won't have any trouble."
"You'll find,' Leo told me, that four days a week you run the team and it wouldn't make any difference in winning or losing. As for the other three days, you'll learn what to do as you go along.'"

Fresco Thompson, the Dodgers' vice president, has another way of making the same point. There are, he points out, 154 games in a championship season. In 50 games, the team is going to lose no matter what the manager does. In 50 others, the team will win in spite of any mistakes the manager makes.

After that game, Bragan fined Clemente and Long $25 each for these mistakes.

"I don't want them to get started wrong," he explained, Most Important Part. THIS, it seems here, is the sort of thing Bragan was talking about when he spoke of the most important part of his job. These are the decisions a manager must make in dealing with his players. It is, of course, important ers. It is, of course, important that they realize that theirs is a serious job. I HAT'S just about what Durocher said," Bragan agreed. He let a mischievous glance flicker around the semi-circle of newspaper men chatting with him. "Four days a week," he said, "you could call a writer down out of the press box and he'd run the team as well as you."

matter. Still, the bystander can hardly fail to recognize a difference between Clemente's offense and Long's.

Missing a sign is usually a crime of carelessness, not readily excusable in a player of big league pretentions. When he's a base runner it is his business to know what's going on, his only business. If he doesn't know, he should call time and ask somebody. he doesn't know, he should call time and ask somebody, even at the risk of tipping off Long's mistake, though, one of over-zealousness rather than indifference or laziness.

than indifference or laziness. Though his play may have been ill-advised, he was trying to help. One should think that if errors of judgment are to be penalized—and perhaps sometimes they must be—a distinction ought to be made between mortal and venial sin."

There could come another day with a dying throw from the outfield and Long or another infielder in position to speed it up. It is not inconceivable that he might think, "uh-uh, not at these prices," and let the ball so by. go by Some Eyebrow Lifting.

T DOES not necessarily follow that Bragan was unwise to show a firm hand. Beaten in their first two games, the Pirates won two of the next four, though there may be no connection between the fines and the scores. Bragan has sent some eye-

Bragan has sent some eyebrows up with another announcement imposing a 1 am. curfew, whether the Pirates play by day or night, "so there"ll be no misunderstanding." Most managers allow two hours after night games, which sometimes keep players in the park after midnight, As the summer comes off. Bobby may find it impracticable to send histwards to bed without supper after a long night's work.

GAS PAINS — Senator Joe McCarthy is frantically trying to explain to Wisconsin house-wives why he voted to raise their gas bills. He has been snowed under with protests suggesting he move to Texas since he is such a pal of Texas oil millionaires.

McCarthy is so alarmed over the hostile mail that he has already sent out 300,000 letters to Wisconsin explaining why he voted to help his Texas oil friends.

Experience tends to show that Communism looms as the greatest danger precisely as some economic progress occurs, people obtain a taste for progress and become impatient.

The problem rather is something like this: Economic progress, one way or another, is all but inevitable in the underdeveloped areas of the world. The people and their leaders are determined to achieve it. Russia stands ready to show how it can be achieved under a Communist system, and with a Communist system, and with some Russian help.

TWO FLURRIES OF STOCK SALES BREAK MARKET

First Coincides With Word No Tax Cut Was Imminent-Second Is at Close

NEW YORK, April 24 (AP)— The stock market weathered an early flurry of selling today and then closed at its low of the session in a final dip. Prices were off I to around 4 points, and the depression extended throughout the entire list. There were only a few plus signs that held signifiplus signs that held significance.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down $1.20 at $188 with the industrial component of $2, railroads down $1.10, and utilities unchanged.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 3.92 points lower at 503.36 at the close. The 20 rails lost .91 of a point at 174.89 and the 15 utilities slipped .29 to 65.14.)

There were 1207 individual issues traded of which 263 advanced and 700 declined with 44 new highs and 91 new lows for the year.

Business came to 2,500,000 shares as compared with 2,440,000 shares are to 2,500,000 shares are to decide the drop of prices which came almost without warning. There was nothing definite in the news to account for the fall, but it came about the time that word from Eisenhower Administration leaders indicated a tax cut this year was virtually out of the question.

There was a great glut of news of annual meetings, and

There was a great glut of news of annual meetings and other corporate developments, but most stocks ignored it all. For instance, Phillips Petroleum proposed a two-for-one split, and the stock sold down between 1 and 2 points. But other oils also were off that amount or more without any news at all.

Eastern Air Lines was up be-tween 1 and 2 points as it re-ported first quarter $1.84 a share as against 94 cents last year. Douglas Aircraft was up a fraction on news of a test flight of a new transport.

of a new transport.

Prices were rather mixed on the American Stock Exchange with volume moderate.

British American Oil shot achad early as Gulf Oil, which owns 25 per-cent of the stock, announced that it was acquiring a subsidiary, a move that will boost its holding of British American to around 60 per cent.

It was reported in New York underwriting circles Tuesday that General Electric Co. will file with the Securities & Exchange Commission Wednesday a registration statement covering an issue of $300,000,000 of 20-year debentures. The mammoth bloc is expected to be offered to the public on May 16 by bankers led by Morgan Stanley & Co. and Goldman, Sachs & Co. It is expected the debentures will have the benefit of a sinking fund, beginning May 1, 1961. This is calculated to retire 65 per cent of the issue by maturity. Average life of securities will be 14.8 years. General Electric will use $138, 000,000 of the proceeds to pay bank loans and the rest for general corporate purposes, the report said. report said.

Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. reported March operating revenues were $25,919,374 compared with $25,418,385 for March with $25,418,385 for March 1955. For first quarter $74,-295,557 compared with $70,043,-443. Net income in March 1956 was $1,113,120 compared with $2,183,155 in March 1955 and for the first quarter of 1956 was $3,844,182 compared with $3,036,130. In March 1956 $1,300,000 was accrued for Federal income taxes and there was no corresponding accrual in March 1955. After mandatory capital and sinking fund appropriations of income, March 1956 shows a balance of $211,-111 comparable to $1,358,401 111 comparable to $1,358,401 in 1955 and for the first quarter of 1956 $1,283,499 compared with $459,244 in the corresp with $459,244 in the correspond-ing period of last year. These figures are for the reorganized Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. with the 1955 figures restated to give effect to the plan of reorganization retroactively to January 1, 1955, the report stated.

Olin Mathieson Chemical Offin Mathieson Chemical Corp. officials reported to the annual stockholders meeting that net income for the first three months of 1956 totaled $10,080,099, or 76 cents a share, compared with $8,943,237, or 72 compared with $8,943,237, or 72 cents a share for the like period last year, a gain of about 13 per cent. Domestic and Canadian sales for the first three months totaled $144,340,677, or 12 per cent more than the $128,697,280 for the first quarter of 1955.

BIGGEST BUSINESSES STILL GROW

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, April 24 (AP). THE BIGGEST BUSINESSES continue to grow. Today there are two more American corporations reporting their total assets as in excess of one billion dollars than a year ago. And with only three exceptions the lengthening list shows assets valued higher today than a year ago.

LOOKING ONLY AT THE 34 industrial, transportation and utility giants and ignoring the financial institutions whose resources are of a different kind, you'll find the Bell Telephone system leading the list as usual with its total assets carried in the annual report of $14,500,000,000. (An older method of accounting, used by most corporations, would put A.T.&T. assets at more than 18 billions.) Next on the list is Jersey Standard Oil with seven billions and General Motors with more than six billions. Three carry their assets at more than three billions-United States Steel, Pennsylvania Railroad and DuPont.

IN THE MORE THAN TWO-, BUT LESS THAN THREE-billion-dollar class, in order of size, are: New York Central, Ford, Socony Mobil Oil, Indiana Standard Oil, Pacific Gas & Electric, Gulf Oil, the Texas Co., and Southern Pacific. Seven companies lie between $1,500,000,000 and two billion dollars: Bethlehem Steel, Consolidated Edison of New York, General Electric, California Standard Oil, Commonwealth Edison of Chicago, Sears Roebuck and the Santa Fe Railroad.

FROM THERE ON, IN DESCENDING ORDER, the billiondollar list includes: Union Pacific, Union Carbide, Chrysler, Humble Oil (a Jersey affiliate), American Gas & Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Baltimore & Ohio, Sinclair Oil, Shell Oil, Phillips Petroleum, Cities Service, International Harvester and Aluminum Co. of America. International Harvester is rejoining the group after a temporary absence. Alcoa is a newcomer.

U.S. STEEL NETS $1.83 FOR RECORD QUARTER

NEW YORK, April 24 (AP)— United States Steel Corp. re-ported record first quarter net income of $104,160,945, equal to $1.83 a common share, com-pared with the previous record first quarter earnings last year of $72,652,402, equal to $1.25 a share, adjusted for last year's

WASHINGTON, April 24—
The Securities and Exchange Commission blacklisted 135 Canadian securities.

It made public a list of 135 stocks that are being illegally offered to United States Investors. The blacklist consists entirely of stocks issued by uranium, gold, oil, copper, lead, zinc, potash and other monerals development corporations.
The commission warned brokers and dealers that they will violate the federal securities laws if they buy or sell any of the stocks.

It said the securities are

Can Grow as Much as They Wish and Be Assured of Low-Level

The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)
WASHINGTON, April 24
The Administration cut corn farmers loose from federal controls yesterday as a condition of eligibility for price support and gave non-compliers in acreage restrictions a price subsidy of $1.25 a bushel.

Heretofore, price support has been denied to farmers who failed to comply with federal acreage allotments. The $1.25 compares with the $1.50 subsidy for producers who comply with acreage restrictions. A majority of farmers do not comply because they feed corn to livestock on the farm. Now, they stock on the farm. Now, they can grow as much corn as they wish and be assured of Government aid on a lower price level.

This marks the first time a Secretary of Agriculture has granted a support to farmers who do not comply with acreage restrictions in a "commercial" area.

The "commercial" corn area covers 840 counties in 23 states. The big production is centered in the politically-important Midwestern livestock states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska, and the Dakotas. for producers who comply with the Dakotas.

Benson Comment.

Benson Comment.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson told a press conference he did not believe that the new program would result in a greater surplus.

The Secretary's announcement followed last week's decision by President Eisenhower to increase flexible price supports this year on corn wheat ports this year on corn, wheat, cotton, rice and peanuts and initiate the new corn plan when he vetoed the farm when he vetoed the farm bill.

Benson also carried out the President's announcement on new minimum supports for wheat and rice. Wheat will be supported at $2 a bushel or $3.7 per cent of parity, an increase of 19 cents over the previously announced prop of $1.81 a bushel or 76 per cent of parity. Rice was increased from $4.04 per 100 pounds or 75 per cent of parity to $4.50, or $2.7 per cent of parity to $4.50, or $2.7 per cent of parity.

Under the vetoed bill, all these crops would have been supported at 90 per cent of parity with higher dollar and cents subsidies.

non-compliers in the commer-cial area is slightly above 70 per cent of parity, a floor be-low which Benson said the price of commercial area corn v not be permitted to fall this marketing year.

On Soil Bank Fund.

Benson also told reporters that he could not spend the $1,200,000,000 approved by the House Appropriations Committee for a soil bank unless Congress votes "more authorization." The House committee said the 1935 Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act gave the Administration ample au-thority to carry out the soil bank, that would pay farmers for cutting surplus production. Meanwhile, Representative Charles A. Halleck (Rep.), Indi-ana, told the House that Repub-licans would attempt an unusual parliamentary maneuver to try to force a House vote on the Administration's soil bank bill. He said an effort would be made to attach the Administra-tion's soil bank bill to the Representative Carl Vinson, (Dem.), Georgia, today called on the Supreme Court to see its "error" in the school segregation decision and reverse itself. Vinson, in a speech before the House, said, "The Supreme Court hes made a mistake, they Vinson, in a speech before the House, said, "The Supreme Court has made a mistake, they have been wrong in upsetting the traditions of a large segment of the population, and more than 100 members of Congress have so stated.

"Let us hope and pray that it is not too late for the Supreme Court to see the error of their ways." he said.

"Wise and courageous men do not hesitate to call attention to those mistakes."

Vinson said that on "May 17, 1954, 168 years of precedent were shattered and abandoned to the sociological ideas of an alien who misled nine members.

alien who misled nine members of the United States Supreme of the United States Supreme Court into an attempt to set aside the principles of constitutional government so dearly bought and so carefuly preserved."

Vinson explained to reporters that he referred to Gunnar Karl Myrdal, Swedish-born suthor. He said Myrdal's book, "The American Dilenams," was cited in the court's school segregation decision.

"What happened on that day was that nine men of the Supreme Court unwittingly, perhaps, arrogated to themselves the whole constitutional federal system of government," Vinson said.

Other Southern gembers of

said.

Other Southern numbers of Congress denounced to reporters but expressed no surprise at yesterday's Supreme Court ruling that outlawed racial segregation on intrastate busses.

"I had thought that would follow the school case." Senator Watter P. George of Georgia said. "I was not surprised."

Senator Olin D. Johnston of reorgin said. I was not surprised."

Senator Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee and another outspoken critic of the school ruling, said,
"I am not surprised at anything
(Chief Justice) Earl Warren's
Supreme Court rules."
Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia termed the ruling
"another in, a series of decisions taking power away from the states where it rightfully belongs."

By the Associated Press.
Robert L. Carter, assistant special counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who argued the case in the Supreme Court, said in New York that the decision ended the "separate but equal doctrine as a legal principle."

principle."

"In dismissing the appeal in the Flemming case the Supreme Court has made it clear beyond question that racial segregation cannot be constitutionally encannot be constitutionall question that racial segregation cannot be constitutionally enforced pursuant to Government authority in any area of American life." he said.

"The task ahead is to secure compliance with the law and thereby demonstrate to the world that in our society, race and color have become not only invalid criteria in the law but also as standards of conduct in our everyday lives."

Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia, an outspoken foe of integration, termed yesterday's decision "another example of an overt usurpation of the libertles of the people..."

"We shall oppose the latest cision "another example of an overt usurpation of the liberties of the people..."

"We shall oppose the latest decision just as we are resisting the decision in the school segregation case by all possible legal means," he said.

Former Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia said the decision was "just another step in the pattern to destroy all sovereignty of the states."

In Louisiana, State Senator William Rainach, chairman of a joint-legislative committee on segregation, said the decision was a new step "in federal dictatorship."

"This is simply another unconstitutional decision in a series of decisions aimed at stripping the states of their rights," he asserted. "It is an unconstitutional seizure of authority by nine unqualified men."

Attorneys General Reaction.
Several Southern Attorneys General were attending a regional meeting of the National Association of Attorneys General at Old Point Comfort, Va., when the decision was announced in Washington.

Attorneys General J. Lindsay Almond Jr. of Virginia, T. C. Callison of South Carolina, in whose state the bus case originated, and John Ben Shepered of Tenes.

C. Callison of South Carolina, in whose state the bus case originated, and John Ben Shepperd of Texas issued a joint statement that said in part:

"We are not surprised at the action of the Supreme Court...in view of the trend of the court's ruling in recent years. It is another unwarranted invasion of state and municipal rights. It simply means now that the states and cities cannot determine the type of vehicles that operate over their streets, the manner of their operation or, that, based upon the factors of health, safety, and morals, separation of the races is a proper exercise of the traditional police power of a state."

Officials in such Southern

Officials in such Southern cities as Atlanta, Memphis, and New Orleans emphasized that state laws prohibited integration on city busses and trolleys and that no changes were planned at present.

Makes Friends with the Meanest Roads

(Have you tried Buick's great new ride?)

The sweet way a '56 Buick rides on all sorts of roads is something you find nowhere else on wheels.

Capricious roads that twist and turn - unruly roads that rock and roll - tired roads, battered and beaten - they all seem to wear company manners the moment a Buick approaches.

Why? Simply because Buick comes with what it takes to put any road on its best behavior the completely ride-engineered combination of chassis, engine and automatic drive that is obtainable in no other car.

And that's gospel truth whether you drive a new SPECIAL, CENTURY, SUPER OF ROADMASTER.

No other car matches the firm, true tracking of Buick's own ride foundation - buttressed by brawny X-braced frame and torque-tube drivecushioned on coil springs and deep-oil shock absorbers.

No other has such width of tread and length of wheelbase within dimensions so trim and tidy that Buicks turn, park and garage more easily than smaller cars.

No other duplicates the assurance of steering, brakes and rear axle so precisely geared and gaited for the nimble handling that's a safety "must" in modern cars.

And certainly no other name plate promises the soaring power that wells from the big 322-cubicinch V8 beneath every new Buick bonnet.

Nor does any other automatic drive put power to its car's rear wheels with the swift, unruffled pace of Variable Pitch Dynaflow*-and that goes double every time you "switch pitch" for whipquick, safer passing.

But why stop to count reasons - when results are what you're after?

Wouldn't you rather really feel Buick's new "sense of direction" on curves and corners?

Wouldn't you rather relax in supreme comfort while tooling this powerful performer over roads you always hated to travel?

Well, sir, we cordially invite you to drop in on us and do just that.

Make it this week, won't you? Sample the ride that has charms to win any old road - and get first-hand figures on prices that make Buick owning a more positive pleasure.

New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century – optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

PERON'S DEGENERATION REVEALED

Dictator Despised His Wife

Dictator Despised His Wife

NEW YORK, April 23 — The empty life of Juan Peron, exiled dictator of Argentina, and his hatred for his seductive wife Eva has been made public, for the first time, in the current issue of Coronet Magazine.

According to Coronet, Peron's relationship with the late Eva was a curious and degrading affair which resulted in his downfall. Their union in marriage, following a questionable and scandalous courtship, ended with Argentina's domination by a scheming woman who began her career as a model for revealing "art studies."

May Coronet, on sale at all newsstands, describes the events leading up to Juan Peron's outer and the reasons behind his shocking behavior aimed at further discrediting his wife's soiled reputation.

Individual Bean Casseroles with sauteed onion rings and pieces of crisp baeon make a guest-type dish of plain fare. Really not so plain, though—because, don't forget, the basis for those casseroles is Libby's Deep-Brown Beans. They're tender through and through... with a succulent deep-brown goodness... and a simply wonderful sauce. 3 styles: with Pork and Tomato Sauce or Molasses Sauce, and Vegetarian in Tomato Sauce.

Celery-Chili Get-together makes a wonderfully flavorful duet. And it's simple—and quick! Just cook coarsely cut, bright green celery in salted water until just barely tender. Drain and pour into serving dish and top with piping hot Libby's Chili. It has lots of lean, ground beef—mixed with plump red beans and rich tomato sauce.

PUTTING HEAT ON HATS

Surrounded by a sea of summer headgear, workers place straw hats on roof of a Tokyo factory to dry in the sum as the season for straws approaches. The hats are very popular for beach wear at Japanese resorts, and manufacturers are at peak production in readiness for the summer.

Dozens of boats dotting placid surface of Blue Lake, hear Coulee City, Wash., Sunday, as the 1956 fishing season got under way. The 540-acre lake in Columbia Basin was rated the state's top fishing spot as more than 7000 fishermen hauled in 90,384 trout, 90 per cent of them Rainbows. Last year's haul on opening day was 53,630 trout. Officials estimated that about 15,000 fishermen were out on lakes in the Coulee City area Sunday.

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGNERS

Dressed in the traditional garb of Hollanders, "Scrubbin Dutch" students of St. Wenceslaus Parochial School carry banners proclaiming cleanup, paint-up and fix-up slogans as they step out along Locust street in parade opening the city's twenty-fifth annual clean-up drive. More than 3500 St. Louis area school children, armed with tools and utensils supporting the clean-up theme, marched in the downtown parade today.

MOST DRENCHED of all were a group of singers called the Vagabonds who have been on Godfrey's show many times before and now run a nightclub in Miami. They and their guitars and other musical instruments were lured into what Godfrey called an isolation booth and then pushed into the pool—clothes and all. It's the kind of humor I don't find especially funny even at 3 a.m. and not at all amusing at 9 p.m.

The Vagabonds didn't appear to appreciate God-frey's delicate humor either. They plunged, stone-faced, into the water, the open part of the booth hit-ting the water first. In their clothes, they floundered out of the booth not without difficulty, guitars floating here and there. I don't suppose there was any real danger of drowning except that I do worry about singers setting tossed into a pool at night especially when encased in a booth.

NOT GODFREE, though. He laughed heartily. The Vagabonds didn't laugh back. They were too interested in getting out of that pool and when they did, they marched stonly past Godfrey and off camera. "Best number you ever did," chuckled Godfrey. Later he added: "What you won't do for a buck!" A tactful remark if ever I heard one. The Maguire sisters who sat next to him smilled bravely but not very convincingly.

AH. WELL, Godfrey's sense of humor sometimes defies explanation. There was another part of the show in which a young man tried to demonstrate a little safiboat in the swimming pool. First he got the main sheet halyard all tangled up with the tiller; then, when he tried to tack, the sail collapsed entirely. Godfrey laughed heartily through these mishaps, too. I didn't hear anyone else laughing—certainly not me. The rest of the show was just wet, though not especially painful. A group of girls who call themselves the Aquabelles went through the sort of arabesques that have become very familiar, shade of Billy Rose. Godfrey was so entranced with their little act that he brought them back during the second half hour and made them go through it all again. It was like sitting through the second show at a movie. It's the sort of thing that could get real tedious if you're not mad for Aquabelles, and my own feelings for them are lukewarm. There was some fine diving by Pete Desjardins, the former Olympic champien. And that was the show.

FRANKLY, I THINK WATER is fine to dive into or swim in or sall on, but not so fine to watch other people do on television. There are some exceptions. "Wide Wide World," for instance, televised a battle between a man and a shark. Charles Collingwood went swimming in the Atlantic on live TV in midwinter. Both these things I'd infinitely rather watch on television than do. As for pushing people into swimming pools, I'm not crazy about either watching it or doing it.

Decide on Vitamin Need

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D.

M.D.

A RE vitamins a racket?"

Many patients have asked me that question. Often it has been provoked by an intense and natural interest in their pocketbooks. You will agree that vitamin medication is quite often expensive. Especially if you have to take this treatment over a long period of months. Nevertheless, the answer is: "Yes, they are necessary. Vitamins are essential to good health." But they must be taken for specific reasons, otherwise you may be spending money needlessly. Too many of us, when we are feeling "helow par" take it upon ourselves to take vitamins without rhyme or reason. We hope the money we spend on the pills and potions will bring large dividends in health. Often we with. Sometimes we lose.

WHEN VITAMINS are unnecessary to our well-being all we are doing is putting good money in a large "kitty" to no avail. It would undoubtedly be more practical and humanitarian to drop these contributions in a box for the heart or cancer funds. The answer is apparent. Let your doctor decide if you have a vitamin deficiency. If he says there is, then you can go marketing for your vitamin supply without feeling that it is a "racket" as far as it affects you.

Rather than look upon vitamins with ausnicion. let's ha you.

Rather than look upon vitamins with suspicion, let's be thankful that investigators and manufacturers have made them so readily available to our needs. One segment of the population that is often overlooked is that of our senior citizens. Often they suffer vitamin-lack.

citizens. Often they suffer vitamin-lack.

The symptoms are masked; we need to be on the alert to make the disgnosis. Vitamin deficiency in the elderly, as in the rest of the population, is due to inadequate intake of sufficient and proper foods. Quite often this is caused by "physical, social and economic changes which confront the aging individual," as stated by T. E. Machella, M.D., associate professor of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania.

In his experience he has found that poorly fitting dentures or insufficient teeth result in the elderly patient avoiding foods that are difficult to masticate. For example, meat, which is an important source of the B-complex vitamins. Limited economic status is another important factor in causing vitamin deficiencies in the aged. They can't buy a variety of foods such as meats and citrus foods and vegetables. They often take the easy way out and exist on canned food alone.

often take the easy way out and exist on canned food alone.

ANOTHER CAUSE of vitamin deficiency in the aged is that they may have cerebral changes which make them childish in their stubbornness to resist nourishment. It then becomes the duty of the younger members of the family to "spoonfeed" them if they expect them to be healthy.

I have seen vitamin-lack in many elderly patients who were emotionally disturbed. They they were a burden to their children. Sometimes they were resentful; at other times, lonely. It almost seemed as if they, by not eating, were taking an unobtrusive "way out." They said they were tired of living and this seemed to be their way of ending it all.

In turn, this vitamin deficiency itself produced a vicious circle. The less they ate, the more dejected and unhappy they became. It seems reasonable, therefore, to be aware—especially in the elderly—of the importance of proper vitamin intake. If you can't supply it by food entirely, then better have your doctor suggest the proper vitamins. He will detect any deficiencies better than you can. Vitamin treatment should not be "hunch treatment." It should be based on clinical findings.

The "Blue Boy" African violet which a friend gave her for her birthday 15 years ago has long since gone to whatever celestial award awaits good flowers, but it started Mrs. Fred Tretter on a horticultural hobby that threatens to crowd her, if not out of her home, at least out of the basement.

Along one whole side of the basement of the Tretter home at 4988 Schollmeyer avenue are tables holding hundreds of African violet plants and on the other side of the room are seedilings and single leaves, taking root in glasses of water in preparation for their next move into clay flower pots.

The youngest ones will wait another year to be exhibited, but the best of those already in blossom will be displayed by Mrs. Tretter at the show to be sponsored by the Council of African Violet Clubs of St. Louis and St. Louis County Saturday and Sunday at Shaw's Garden. Mrs. Tretter, a former president of the Greater St. Louis African Violet Club, is general chairman of the show.

The plant is African in its origin, and is no kin to the common garden-variety violet so popular in this country, Mrs.

Like almost every other flower grower who has undertaken to raise African violets, Mrs. Tret-ter had her troubles at first. For five years or so she had little success, but for the past 10 years her plants have grown well and bloomed abundantly so well and bloomed abundantly so that she now has one of the largest collections in this area. She estimates her indoor gar-den now at more than 1000 plants representing at least 300

The plants are almost like pets to her. She can name every variety on the basement tables with hardly more than a glance. If one begins to sag a little, she isolates it from the others to make sure there is no contagious plant disease, and if it should die, it's with a wrench that she throws it away.

"You come to know each one of them well," she said. "But I can't afford to keep a sick plant with the others. Repairing Joints Between Brick and Masonry Units.
The weak spot in any masonry wall be it brick, concrete block or what-haveyou, is the mortar joint that if the mortar joint isn't sound, the wall isn't going to be much

Now when the mortar be Now when the mortar between the units begins to crack or to fail in some other fashion, you don't have to take down the entire wall. What you do is to re-new the mortar and this is called "pointing" or "tuck pointing."

"tuck pointing."

You start off this job by removing the damaged mortar. Use a cold chisel and hammer for this job and be careful not to damage the masonry units. When the old damaged mortar is out of the way, brush out the crevice between the units and wet down the opening. This is an important step because if mortar is put into a dry opening the dry masonry will draw the moisture out of the mortar before the mortar has set and you'il have a leaky weak joint Mortar for pointing is made with one part Portland cement and three parts sand or you can buy the ready-mixed mortar in package form which is a good time saver. Use a small trowel to force the mortar into the joint and see that it's well packed in.

About the best type of joint for masonry exposed to the weather is one where the outside face slants back from bottom to top. The bottom of the mortar should be flush with the face of the masonry units, and the top of the mortar should be a fraction of an inch from the face of the masonry. Water striking such a joint will flow off readily and not hang around and cause trouble.

AFRICAN VIOLETS . . . HER ONLY SECRET OF GROWING THEM SUCCESSFULLY IS, "YOU HAVE TO LOVE THEM."

est she has ever developed was 22 inches.

ALWAYS on the lookout for new varieties, she now is carefully tending a rare double pink, and is trying to breed a new double pink by crossing a "White Madonna" with a "Pink Attraction."

"I have no idea what I will get," she said. "But the 'White Madonna' has a double flower, and I thought that by crossing that with a pink blossom, I would get a double pink."

Before a species can be registered, a leaf from the plant which results from the pollination must be placed in water to develop a new plant, and a leaf from that second plant must be placed in water for a third growth, a project requiring at least five years. If the color and formation of the original blossom remain true for the second and third generations, the grower may register it as new type African violet.

An avid gardener even as a child growing up in south St. Louis, Mrs. Tretter was especially interested in begonias and orchids before starting her African violet collection. She is

DIET FAD CALLED DANGEROUS Doctors Warn of Permanent Injury

New York, April 23—Conditions under which ill-advised diets can result in shock and even death are described in the current issue of Coronet Magazine.

In the article, which quotes recognized medical authorities, certain diets are regarded as dangerous to life and health, and, at the same time, are of no practical value in a reducing program.

Coronet illustrates the pitfalls of a self-imposed, salt-free diet, currently the most popular and generally used reducing fad. It is generally recognized that salt restriction can result in the loss of a few pounds of water. But this loss is short lived, while more serious complications could follow.

He, therefore, cashed the king of diamonds, returned to his hand with a third trump lead, played the ace of diamonds, on which a small club was discarded from dummy, then ruffed his last diamond.

At this point it was clear that Miss Brash could not possibly have as many as four clubs. If she held spades and Mr. Abel could protect clubs, no squeeze could be developed.

Mr. Masters neatly arranged things so that Mr. Abel would have to guard both suits. He pulled the king of spades from dummy. If Miss Brash had failed to cover, he planned to discard a club. She did cover and Mr. Masters ruffed.

Now Mr. Abel had the high spade, the 10. On the play of the last trump he had to hold that card to keep dummy's nine from winning. He, therefore, had to part with one of his three remaining clubs and Mr. Masters won the last tricks in the club suit.

He contents himself with sitting in the basement watching her work or listening at the dinner table to what "Uncle Bob" or "Sailor's Delight" or "Ruffled Treaure" accomplished that day in the way of putting forth new leaves or flowers.

"However," she laughed, "sometimes I forget everything else while I'm working with the flowers. That's why I put that clock down here. A couple of times my husband came home from work and found me down here—and no dinner on the stove."

ARRIVING Sunday for a ten-day visit was Mrs. Norman E. Walt Jr. (Jo-Ann Ferguson) of Greenwich, Conn. She is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde P. Ferguson. 108 Roseacre lane. Mrs. Ferguson is planning a tea for contemporaries of Mrs. Walt. Other visitors here are Navy Lt. and Mrs. Donald F. Blair (Wayne Garrison), their children, Cindy and Scott Blair, and her mother, Mrs. Earl Garrison. They are with Mr. Blair's parents, Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Donald S. Blair, 445 Selma avenue. Scott Blair was christened Sunday at Webster Groves Christian Church by the Rev. Dr. Raymond W. McCallister. Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Strauchen served as sponsors. Afterward there was a family party at the Blair home.

The younger Blairs came here from Guantanamo, Cuba, where he had been stationed. He will depart Saturday for an assignment at Quonset Point, R.I., where his family will join him after he has found quarters. In the meantime they will accompany Mrs. Garrison to her home in Dallas for a visit. Mr. and Mrs. Garrison formerly lived in Webster Groves.

Returning home last week from a Florida holiday were Mrs. Simeon R. Tyler, 145 Gray avenue, and Mrs. John O. Buchta, 586 Westborough place. Making Clearwater their head-quarters, the travelers took several trips to nearby resorts.

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Harry T. Scherer, 226 Spencer road, returned home Sunday from a two-week trip to Los Angeles, where they visited their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Scherer. Their daughter-in-law accompanied them here for a visit.

Comment On A.A.U.N. Role in Utah

By Eleanor Roosevelt

FORT WORTH, Tex.

A FTER the mass meeting in the University of Utah auditorium in Salt Lake City Friday night, I took off on a plane for Denver, with my final destination as Fort Worth.

I must compliment our American Association for the United Nations in Utah. From the beginning it had a difficult time, as the Governor does not believe in the U.N.

He is the first Republican Governor Utah has had in a long time. And he must belong, I think, to the reactionary wing of the Republican party, since he seems to be for economy at all costs, regardless of whether it is real economy or, in the long run, will cost more than it saves.

People everywhere like economy, but I think they are beginning to see that sometimes, when things are really needed, it is better to meet these needs as quickly as possible.

as quickly as possible.

* * *

TRUE, the Governor is honest in his convictions, and one cannot blame him for trying to live up to them. But neither is it strange that if you do not believe in spending money on education. In both cases, you are refusing to accept changes in the world. As a result of the lack of money for educational needs in Utah, its citizens are obliged to start now on a building program that should have been begun some years ago when the dollar paid for more than it does today.

It was encouraging to hear that one or two high schools, which had not intended to participate in the model assembly, were forced into it by the interest shown by their students. As a result, the number of high schools that took part was extraordinarily high.

I AM ONLY 13 but old enough to defend the female Well, Mr. Know-it-all, if you haven't learned by now a few of the many reasons why God put the women on this earth, you don't deserve to know now. And besides, if women didn't help the poor ignorant men, who else A SATISFIED FEMALE.

★ ★ Dear Martha:

HERE IS WHAT ONE of "V's" fellow males thinks. Apparently, this bird has been shown up for what he is by a woman. I imagine his women associates are getting tired of this "man's superior, woman's inferior" attitude and told him a few things. He's the one who doesn't know the score! If the women are as bad as he says, why doesn't he use his masculipe influence to stop the and I'm sure they'd be only too glad to get off! DAVE.

Dear Martha: TO "V": There isn't a woman in her right mind who would have you. Maybe that's what's the matter with you. You are not a man. You have a lot of growing up to do.

Dear Martha:

HOW WARPED CAN A MIND BECOME and be allowed to roam the streets alone? I'm sure "V's" mother must be very proud of her brilliant son. I hope whereever she is, she doesn't know that he wrote this, SCARED OF MEN.

Dear Martha:

TO "V": Since you already know that it took a woman to give you life, then you might like to know that I feel it may not have been such a worthwhile accomplishment at that. You sound to me like a pretty conceited person and like you might have gotten a brush-off from a woman. You men can fight your wars but you wouldn't get far without us "meddling women" who gave many men the courage and will to do right. G. AND K.

Dear Martha:

I THINK "V" was right. The only thing women are good for is to fix men's meals, clean the house and have children.

AGREEING WITH V.

Dear Martha:

"V" SAYS MANY WOMEN have crossed his path. Well, I say all the women who did cross it are probably thanking their lucky stars that they didn't stop. Guess I'd better stop. The more I write, the angrier I get.

The Boy in Man

By Ruth Millett

HEN Grandma said that men are just little boys grown up she may have been exaggerating. But it is still a wise woman who remembers that beneath her steady, hard-working, conservative husband there is still some of the little boy who once saw life as a great adventure.

If a women doesn't understand this-she may be impatient with a man's enthusiasm for such things hunting, fishing, out board motors. She may not be able to understand why his idea of a perfect vacation is to rough it in the woods instead of going to a fancy summer resort.

RUTH MILLETT If she doesn't under-stand that he still needs some excitement in his life, she may veto all his "crazy" ideas and always try to make him do the "sensible" thing (the thing that seems sensible to her). If she forgets that there is in him still some of the small boy's need for approval she may not be the admiring audience he needs. If she doesn't realize that her man probably has never lost his boyish wonder at what makes things work she may have little enthusiasm for his changing hobbies, his puttering and his fascination with gadgets. If she doesn't respect his right to be completely absorbed in whatever interests him at the moment, she may seem to him like a nagger who is always trying to tear him away from the thing he is enjoying. Certainly men are much, much more than little boys grown up. But the most interesting men never entirely lose some of their boyish enthusiasm and love of adventure. And lucky is the man who gets a wife who doesn't try to squelch

Etiquette Questions By Amy Vanderbilt

THE initials "R.S.V.P.," or as is sometimes written "R.s.v.p.," means, "Respond, if you place." during the Civil War, these initials did not appear on formal invitations in American society. At that time, the "gentry" knew that a formal invitation, always delivered by a lackey, required an immediate hand-written answer in the third person on fine white stationery and black ink, also dispatched by hand.

However, after the Civil War there was an enormous social revolution. Families that had made fortunes during the war years began receiving invitations in the formal manner and, not being educated to the most refined so cial manner, eventually had to be reminded by means of the R.S.V.P. that a reply was expected.

Today we still use the R.S.V.P. on invitations of various kinds, but with today's careless manners we find that many people ignore this gentle reminder. Even people abroad are getting lax in the matter. At one American embassy, I was told that the protocol secretary often had to call all of a 100 or 125 invitees to a dinner party given by the Ambassedor because, as the day approached, almost no one had othered to respond.

Clarissa Start. It was Saturday morning and I was cleaning the closet in that room. Well, you know how it is with cleaning closets; you'll do anything to avoid reaching back into the depths to find out what's really in that box marked, "Christmas Wrapping Paper, 1946."

I kept walking between closet and bed, piling up out-of-date hats, half knitted socks, all the things too good to give away, not good enough to use, which end up in a storage closet. Each trip took me past the dangling wallpaper. Finally I could stand it no longer. I reached up and

-What to Wear

. Complexion Color

By Louise Trescott

RS. C. A. writes: "I'm sure to for ther would help me and a lot of other women if you would tell us how to tell the color of our complexions. I look green sometimes, yellow others, or as gray as an oyster in low moments. What type am I and which is what? I have very dark hair and eyes, if that helps. When I feel good, I like black."

First, cut a square of pure white paper, four by four inches and snip a two-inch hole in the center. Remove all makeup. Brush hair back and cover with pure white towel. Lay the paper frame on forehead, perhaps fastening with adhesive. Now take a mirror and study that patch of skin in good, clear daylight.

ALTHOUGH there are sev-

ALTHOUGH there are several colors in every skin, one predominates to a greater or lesser degree and it is your job to decide what it is. Is it pink, blue, violet, cream, yellow or orange? Or is it mat white or green?

If you think it is one of the first three—pink, blue or violet—you have a cool skin. If one of the next three—cream, yellow or orange—you have a warm skin. If in the last bracket—mat white through delicate greenish casts to pure olive—you have a neutral complexion. And that is what I believe you have, Mrs. C. A.

Worthington air conditioning

Come summer—or any time, he's ready—this up-to-date home owner can install the cooling half of his Worthington year-round air conditioner. Right now, the heating half is circulating warm, filtered, humidified air through every room in his home.

The amazingly compact cooling unit alides in like a drawer—requires no additional space or ductwork. And the happy result is year-round air conditioning.

Worthington brings you air conditioning that fits your pocketbook. Anyone can afford a Worthington air-conditioning system.

Find out how easily the Worthington residential unit fits into your home—and your budget—by calling your Worthington Climate Man today.

By Ramon Coffman

T HE Aztec Indians gained control over much of the the Republic of Mexico. Most of the tribes in that area ac-cepted their rule, and some of the chiefs paid tribute to the emperor in the capital city.

The Artee capital was on high ground—almost a mile and a half above sea level. This city later gained the name of Mexico City, or Mexico, D.F., and it remains the capital of the country.

WE MAY WONDER what would have happened to the Aztec empire if the Spaniards had stayed out of the country. That is an open question. The Spaniards made their entrance only 27 years after the first voyage of Columbus. dow, and got down to the street below.

The conquest of Mexico was hastened by a leader named Hernando Cortez (also spelled "Cortes"). At the age of 19 he arrived in Hispaniola, a good-sized island east of Cuba. He looked for gold, but was disappointed. Then he managed a farm, with Indian slaves as workmen.
